Police search for shotgun slayers

By RICHARD GOLD

CANTON—An unpaid $50 loan and a ring used for collateral proved fatal for what police think was an innocent victim of circumstances in the wee hours of Tuesday morning.

Terry Lewis Buchman, 22, of Canton was found slain in a field at the corner of Joy and Ridge roads by Sheriff's deputies shortly after 2 a.m. He had been shot once in the back with a .22, and once in the back of the head with a shotgun.

A friend, Lloyd C. Cash, 19, who was with him at the time of the homicide, was beaten with a rifle butt.

Sheriff's detectives have been attempting to piece together the series of events that led to Buchman's death, and are presently searching for "three prime suspects."

First degree murder warrants were issued yesterday (Wednesday) for three former Plymouth High School students: Barry L. Provow, 27, his wife, Leslie Cassidy Provow, 22, and Robert W. Umney, 24.

Both Provow and Umney have police records and were recently paroled from Jackson Prison, where they had been serving terms for armed robbery. According to the detective bureau, the events leading to the tragedy began sometime prior to Tuesday, when Provow allegedly arranged for a loan of $500.

A diamond ring was given as collateral, but police theorize that the money never changed hands.

Police feel Provow sought the help of Cash to get either the money or the ring back.

In turn, Cash went to his friend, Buchman, who was thought to be friendly with the individual that was holding the ring.

Cash and Buchman attempted to arrange a meeting between the two parties involved in the loan at the Deer Creek Apartment complex in Canton. Police hypothesize that the man with the ring never showed.

At 12:45 a.m. on Tuesday, the Sheriff's department received an abduction call saying that two men had been forced into a car (Cash and Buchman).

At 2:06 a.m., some 90 minutes later, the Sheriff received another call asking them to go to Joy and Ridge in the northwestern portion of Canton Township.

When they arrived, they found Buchman dead in a field on the southeastern corner of Joy and Ridge.

Allegedly, the owner of the ring had become angered when the man who defaulted on the loan didn't show at the meeting place.

Cash said he and Buchman were forced into the car by their attackers with a .22 rifle and a shotgun.

Cash was subsequently beaten with a rifle butt while in the car.

When the car arrived at the corner of Ridge and Joy, it stopped. Cash said he was forced to lie face down in a ditch, but Buchman attempted to escape. Two male attackers pursued the fleeing Buchman and he was shot in the back with the .22 rifle.

When the two men chased Buchman, the woman was left to stand guard over Cash, still lying face down in the roadside ditch.

Cash, however, fled in the opposite direction when he saw the men chase Buchman.

Sometime after Cash fled, Buchman was fatally shot in the back of the head with a shotgun.

Cash, meanwhile, reached safety at a nearby home, where the second call was made to the sheriff.

Buchman lived at 7704 Alton Drive in the Holiday Park Subdivision. His friend Cash is also a resident of Canton and police believe the three attackers also live in the township.

Services for Buchman will be held in the Schrader funeral home on Friday, Jan. 30. A '71 graduate of Plymouth-Salem, he worked until recently at Associated Spring.

He is survived by: his father Thomas A. Buchman; his mother Ivell, two brothers, Timothy of Canton and Thomas of Ferndale; and his maternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Schmitz of Midland.

He will be buried in Riverside cemetery.

Another Moceri PUD denied

CANTON—"I may speak for myself. I hope not, but if a builder comes back to us after having performed work in a shoddy manner, you'd better believe he'll have a hard row to hoe if wants to build again in Canton," stated angry Supervisor Robert Greenstein.

Greenstein was talking to Gilbert Franklin, attorney and representative for the Dominic Moceri Development company.

Franklin had applied to the board for a PUD agreement on an altered plan for Canton Center Woods.

The board, following the recommendation of planner Mike Manore, rejected his application and referred him to the planning commission.

The attitude of the board appeared to be unfriendly toward Franklin as frequent mention was made of another Moceri devlopment, Pickwick Village, located at Lilley and Barchester.

Numerous complaints have originated out of the Pickwick subdivision, some which have not been rectified by the builders 1½ years after completion of the houses.

Bill Vitti, president of the Pickwick Homeowners Association, said, "I have here in my hand a bunch of complaints—probably between 25 and 30. Some of them are for some of the first homes built in the subdivision. Any claim that all is taken care of in Pickwick is incorrect."

Greenstein was more vehement, "I was over there and I saw the mess—I saw it on television, I heard it on the radio, and I saw it in the newspapers. People had to give up their rights to live in those homes because they had no where else to go."

When Franklin suggested he was not to blame, Greenstein responded, "Come on, Mr. Franklin, we have talked privately and I know that you are a representative of this company.

A rare treat for high school classes

Mime students ready antics

CANTON— Arrayed in black leotards, brightly-colored T-shirts and faces painted white, 31 members of a Centennial Educational Park pantomime class will perform their silent antics Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Plymouth Canton High School auditorium.

Thirty skits, ranging from the bizarre to slapstick to heavy drama and written by the students themselves, will make up the program as well as an impromptu skit, performed each night by the student whose name is drawn from a hat.

The pantomime class, now in its third year at the Centennial Educational Park, is an unusual feature of a high school curriculum. Drama teacher Gloria Logan rates the class as the only of its kind in Michigan or perhaps in the entire country.

MRS. LOGAN, who performed with a pantomime company at Eastern Michigan University five or six years ago, spearheaded the establishment of the one-semester course, offered as an English elective once a year.

"In pantomime, the only thing you have to rely on is yourself," Mrs. Logan explained. "A lot of people have trouble communicating with their voices, let alone without them.

"It's up to what you can do with your body and hands and expressions in pantomime," she said. "A lot of people don't realize how much they communicate without saying anything."

Her students agreed.

"I THINK pantomime is basic for any actor or actress," said senior Kevin Rosner, "because it stresses body control. If you can blossom your imagination in pantamime, you can do it with dialogue."

Senior Charles Burr added, "It helps develop the body for movement in all kinds of drama."

Body movements and facial expressions are key factors in good pantomime, Mrs. Logan said. Students perform muscle-limbering exercises on a regular basis to achieve awkward movements with ease.

"It's almost a modern dance technique," she said.

The exercises also provide bases for skit ideas. One skit scheduled for this weekend's performance is based on a "mirror image" exercise, Mrs. Logan explained, in which two performers stand face-to-face and duplicate each other's body movements.

AN IMPROMPTU skit will mark a highlight of the program, she said. One student, whose name is drawn from a hat, will perform an on-the-spot assignment.

"Six students got brave and put their names in a hat," Mrs. Logan said. "That's a brave thing to do."

Rosner, whose name could appear from the hat this weekend, admits the impromptu skit is a little bit "scary."

"But that's the fun of it," Rosner said.

Students will appear on stage in similar costumes and white, red-lipped pantomime faces.

"The pantomime face is supposed to eliminate features and put forth the most expressive features— the mouth and the eyes," Mrs. Logan explained. "This way performers can also change from one character to the next without changing costumes and make-up."

Mrs. Logan said some of her pantomime students will probably continue in the dramatic field.

"This class isn't specifically designed for theater-oriented kids," she said, "but I have a great number who do decide to go on. I'm always surprised how many of them do. Drama isn't a field with job or monetary security."

Admission to this weekend's "Pantomime '75" show is 50 cents.

Rebates spur auto buyers

By DARLENE STINSON

Plymouth and Canton residents are jamming showrooms of local car dealerships these days to take advantage of rebate plans offered by American auto companies.

Spokesmen for six new car dealers in the Plymouth-Canton area say sales and traffic in their showrooms have been "super" since the rebate plans went into effect a few weeks ago and hope rebates will provide "the shot in the arm" the slumping economy needs.

REBATES AT area new car dealerships slice $200 to $600 off some new-car prices. Although rebate plans at all four auto companies end with the Feb. 28 deadline for cars in inventory, plans under which "rebate" cars can be ordered differ from company to company.

Chrysler Corp., which spearheaded the rebate idea, provides the most expanded rebate plan for new-car orders. Chrysler customers can purchase cars in stock or order others covered by the rebate umbrella until the Feb. 28 cut-off date.

Ford Motor Co. products must be ordered by this Saturday, Feb. 1, or delivered by Feb. 28 to retain rebate eligibility.

General Motors and American Motor Corp. products must be delivered by Feb. 28. GM and AMC cars delivered past that date will be ineligible for rebates.

Despite differences in rebate plans, local sales for all four auto companies have climbed out of the previous slump.

"The amount of traffic and the cars we've sold is fabulous," said Ray Dalto, general manager of Leo Calhoun Ford, 41001 Plymouth Road, Plymouth, of business under the rebate plan. "The response has been super. For a single week period, we sold more cars last week than all last year.

"It proves the price of a car was too high."

Ford is offering a $200 rebate on 1975 Pintos and Mavericks, a $300 rebate on two bottom-of-the-line Mustangs, a $500 rebate on the Mustang Mach I and Ghia and a $350 rebate on the Super Cab truck.

Customers are purchasing cars not covered by the rebate umbrella, Dalto said, as well as those that are.

Rebates have spurred "at least a 50 per cent increase" in sales at Leo Calhoun, Dalto said, where "business has been terrible up until now."

If sales continue at their present pace, the dealership may rehire six employes laid off during the previous slump, Dalto said.

IN THE Lincoln-Mercury division, Ford is offering a $500 rebate on 1974 Capris and a $200 rebate on 1975 Comets.

All Ford rebates are offered on check-after-purchase or down-payment basis.

Unlike Ford and GM, which issues rebates the same way as Ford, Chrysler and AMC rebates are sent in the mail after a car is purchased.

George Kolb, president of Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury, 40601 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, said sales at his dealership have jumped 100 per cent since the rebate plan was instituted, while traffic has increased 400 per cent.

"Immediately after the rebate program was announced Jan. 16, we began to get all kinds of inquiries," Kolb said. "Traffic since then has just been unbelievable. In general, this thing's been great.

"It seems to have instilled enough confidence that people are letting loose money to buy models not covered by rebate."

Kolb said sales at his dealership were down "dramatically" over fall

2nd Dems gear for Esch defeat; state party backs public strikes

By TIM RICHARD

"We're going to put the spears away," said Don Poirier, new chairman of the 2nd Congressional District Democratic organization as Michigan Democrats closed one of their most placid conventions in years.

Poirier, 39, had the only contest as 2nd District delegates elected a new slate of officers in caucus at the state convention. He defeated Bob Kuebler of Ypsilanti 89-66.

Poirier, assistant controller of Michigan Gas Utilities in private life, comes from Monroe, a section of the 2nd that so far hasn't brought forth a top leader or top candidate in the 2nd, dominated by Livonia and Ann Arbor.

"I WANT TO start to put a district organization together to elect a congressman, and I've had promises of support from all over the district," Poirier said.

He allowed there are some internal problems in the sprawling district, whose seat in Congress was won last year for the fifth time by Republican Marvin Esch. "Monroe has a rapport with Wayne County that it doesn't have with Washtenaw," Poirier said, "and even that rapport isn't total. We need to get rid of the air of distrust. And this has been the best state convention in years."

Even as he chatted on the convention floor in Detroit's Cobo Hall, the gavel was banging— 90 minutes early—to end the party's most harmonious state convention in the memory of most delegates.

Not that there was a lot to argue about: The only major item of business for a winter convention, now that all state offices are elected on the November ballot, is election of a state chairman, and incumbent Morley Winograd, 32, of Troy, had it wrapped up.

Also elected to state party posts were Olivia (Libby) Maynard, first vice chairperson; Kenneth Hylton, second vice chairperson; Stuart Hertzberg, treasurer; Grace Hampton, recording secretary; and Rose DiPonio, corresponding secretary.

EVEN RESOLUTIONS, over which Democrats usually like to squabble, especially on ideological grounds, presented few problems.

Delegates dumped a proposed resolution calling on the Legislature to "find a solution to the problem of contract disputes in the educational field" and substituted one declaring "both public and private employes should have the right to strike."

Another called for amending Michigan's primary election law to require party registration for voters in a primary. Democrats have been unhappy with the open primary since Republicans in 1972 crossed over in droves to give Alabama's George C. Wallace a majority in the presidential primary.

THE 2ND DISTRICT caucus, after picking Poirier chairman, also selected these officers:

Shirley Johnson of Ypsilanti, first vice chairperson; Barbara Johnson of Livonia, second vice chairperson; Dave Bernstein of Monroe, third vice chairperson; Martha Adkins of Ypsilanti, corresponding secretary; Ann Tavolacci of Livonia, recording secretary; and Ted Preston of Livonia, treasurer.

Seven delegates to the Democratic State Central Committee, governing body of the party between elections, include: Sid Diamond and Phyllis (Pat) Whitton of Livonia; Gregg Keys and Anne Poirier of Monroe; Tom Murray and Richard C. Bailey of Ann Arbor, and Ethel Howard of Ypsilanti.

Plymouth Heights readies sixth charter

By DARLENE STINSON

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP— Township residents will rally at the polls Aug. 3, 1976, to approve or deny the sixth charter for the City of Plymouth Heights submitted in 15 years.

A nine-member charter commission, elected as the township's sixth in the November general election, now proofreading the typed document that could transform Plymouth Township into the City of Plymouth Heights, and provide improved services for a higher tax rate.

Like charters submitted in the past, the new charter provides for a strong mayor system of government and an elected clerk and treasurer, according to charter commission chairman Robert Richardson.

THE CITY of Plymouth Heights would employ a seven-member city council under the charter and provide the services of a fire department, police department, public health department, department of public works, department of parks and recreation, department of building and engineering and a eepartment of law, Richardson said.

Township residents would benefit from the expanded city services of a new police department and receive more police protection than currently offered by the Wayne County Sheriff Department.

The city's public health department would take over the inspection functions of the Wayne County Health Department, Richardson said, and a new department of parks and recreation would maintain the city's parks and recreation areas. Current functions of the township's DPW, department of building and engineering and department of law would expand under the new charter.

Although township residents would receive more services under the city form of government, those services would mean extra tax dollars.

THE NEW CITY charter limits the tax levy that can be imposed without an election to 20 mills ($20 per $1,000 of state equalized property value).

A township, on the other hand, is constitutionally limited to a one-mill tax levy without the vote of the people. Plymouth Township, Richardson said, currently levies 3.75 mills.

The Plymouth Heights City Council would decide how many of those 20 mills would be levied and what services, such as garbage pickup and snow removal, would be offered, Richardson noted.

"We would hope the council would not lap up all the mills, unless they were needed," Richardson said. "Services offered would depend on how far the councilmen and people would want to go. There are many areas of service you hear all kinds of complaints on now."

The current township tax burden could jump from $3.75 to $20 per $1,000 of state equalized value, an annual increase of $243.75 for a $30,000 home.

The charter provides for a strong mayor form of government, Richarson explained, because charter commission members believe a powerful mayor welds a more efficient city government.

Under the charter, the mayor would appoint administrative heads of city departments with the approval of the council, Richardson said. The mayor would exercise veto power over council decisions.

THE ELECTED mayor would be subject to recall proceedings at all times, however.

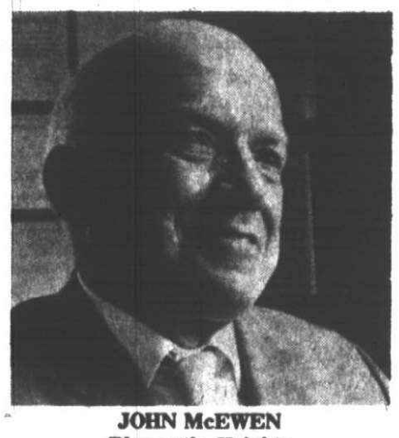
"We feel the strong mayor form of government has been the intention all along," Richardson said. "We feel it's much more efficient when you have a stong leader. I just feel that when you have a council and mayor and city manager, duties are distributed too widely."

Charter commission members decided to provide for a seven-member city council in the new charter, Richardson said, after discussing the possibility of a smaller council membership.

"We talked about this a great deal," he said. "We felt with the current growth of population a seven-member council would give better representation."

Three city council members would be elected to three-year terms, said Richardson while the remaining four would hold two-year seats. Councilmen receiving the most votes in the first election would win the four-year posts.

"That way you never come up with a whole new council," he said. "Limiting it to two-year terms really isn't conducive to good government."



JOHN McEWEN
Plymouth Heights
DeFacto Mayor

A NEW FEATURE of the proposed city charter gives voters the power to elect the president and president brotem of the council, Richardson said. While previous charters gave city council members the power to elect their own officers, councilmen who gather the most votes in an election would attain officer positions under the new charter.

"We feel this is more in keeping with the wishes of the electorate," he said.

Also new in the charter is the abolition of constables.

"We feel you don't need constables with an adequate police department," Richardson said. "We feel an adequate police department can handle everything.

"In some areas, constables are quite active," he added. "Constables probably sprang up years ago when you had a rural community far from the county seat."

ANOTHER FEATURE of the charter lacking in previous documents is the establishment of a five-member compensation board, empowered to recommend salaries of elected officials to the city council. The mayor would appoint compensation board members prior to each election, Richardson said, and recommendations would be subject to council approval.

"We feel this takes the burden of setting their own salaries off the council members," he explained.

In addition, the new charter changes former charter provisions for civil service commission appointments. Under the new charter, the mayor will appoint one member to the civil service commission, and municipal employes will appoint another. The two appointed commission members will appoint a third.

Under previous charters, the mayor appointed one member, while municipal employes appointed two. The new arrangement will provide for a more impartial civil service commission, Richardson maintains.

"I think it's a real good charter," Richardson added. "The provisions are all good and strong. We've had some real good charter commission members, and I think they deserve a lot of credit."

The new charter should be on Gov. William Milliken's desk for legal scrutiny by the first week in February, Richardson said.

Candidates for mayor, treasurer, clerk and council will appear on the August 1976 ballot along with the charter question

City annexation bid delayed

The decision on whether the 30-acre Burroughs parking lot on Plymouth Road will become part of the city may not be made for another six or seven months.

That was the opinion expressed by State Boundary Commission Secreatry Jim Hyde last week.

A backlog of cases, some dating back three years, will be the chief cause for the delay in a ruling, Hyde said. The commission will try, over the next six months, to bring that backlog up to date, leaving a backlog of only about a year on commmission decisions.

At a public hearing in October, representatives of the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township presented arguments pro and con on the proposed annexation. At that time, it was thought a decision would be handed down just after the first of the year.

According to Hyde, the earliest the commission could meet to adjudicate the annexation would be in "late May." Following that it would take at least one month, according to Hyde, to have a formal decision drafted and approved by the commission.

Hyde added that a more "realistic"' date for a decision would be "early fall."

Following the Oct. 22 public hearing, the city filed supplemental information with the boundary commission, responding to some points raised at the hearing.

The city also requested the boundary commission to reconsider an earlier denial to hear arguments on the annexation of property across Plymouth Road, the site of the Hillside Inn.

The commission had earlier refused to consider that proposal because of a technical error in the filing of the annexation proposal, according to Plymouth City Manager Fred Yockey.

The city argues that if the Burroughs annexation is approved, the Hillside property would be located on an island of township property, completely surrounded by the city.

Yockey said that if the boundary commission looks favorably on the supplemental material, the commission may call for another public hearing on the matter. If so, the decision would be delayed even further.

Township officials preferrred not to comment on the added information filed by the city after the hearing.

"There's really nothing we can do now, " noted Township Clerk Helen Richardson. "We're in limbo until the boundary commission acts. We have acted in the best interests of the township residents to this point and anything we say now isn't important. It's a dead issue."

Ford knocks Ford priorities

WESTLAND—U. S. Rep. William D. Ford (D-Taylor), whose district includes Westland, Garden City and Canton has introduced legislation blocking two of President Gerald Ford's proposals, which call for increases in the cost of food stamps and petroleum import fees.

Accusing the president of having his "priorities badly mixed," Ford noted senior citizens and unemployed workers are dependent on food stamps for survival.

"When the president announced his plan to increase food stamp costs," Ford said, "he predicted recipients would have to pay 'slightly more' for the stamps. The facts are, however, that 95 per cent of those Americans using food stamps will pay 30 per cent more, causing many of them to drop out of the program altogether.

"SOME OF THE poorest recipients, who are now able to budget five per cent of their meager incomes for food, would have a 500 per cent increase in their food budgets."

Ford also took a verbal slap at the President for requesting more aid for South Vietnam.

"The president in one breath has asked Congress for $300 million in extra aid for South Vietnam, and in the next breath wants to cut $650 million from the food stamp program for retired, unemployed and underpriveleged Americans.

"Either the President has his priorities badly mixed, or he is completely unaware that millions of retirees, unemployed and poor Americans need reasonable priced food stamps to survive in our country today."

Ford was joined by members of the House Ways and Means Committee in co-sponsoring the legislation which would block petroleum import fees and would also repeal any interim action taken by the President to levy petroleum tariffs.

According to the President's plan, an import tax of $3 would be placed on each barrel of petroleum, netting the federal government $15 billion for the three month period.

Ford contends import fees would add up to $54 billion in higher prices to consumers for electricity and for agricultural products.

IN FORD'S estimation, the President's action has resulted in "a battle line between the administration and Congress over the fair and effective means of battling the major depression which threatens the nation."

WILLIAM D. FORD

Ford contends the adminstration would place an unfair burden on who can afford it the least.

"A major increase in the cost of living is simply not tolerable for Americans who are already caught in the vice of inflation," Ford said.

Instead, Ford maintained, gasoline consumption should be reduced without resorting to higher prices.

"We should maintain and strictly enforce the 55 mph speed limit; close filling stations on Sunday and establish a computerized allocation system to make certain sufficient gasoline and fuel oil are available for all sections of the country.

"As a last resort, we can turn to rationing. I do not want to take this step, but it is certainly preferable to making driving a rich man's privilege and adding to the already crushing burder of inflation."

CLARENCE A. DuCHARME, president of Fiesta Motors, an AMC dealership at 1205 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, heaped more praise on the rebate idea.

"In four days we did more business than in the previous 20," DuCharme said, adding that rebates have spurred sales at his dealership about 300 per cent. "I can't say enough good about it. It's brought a tremendous amount of traffic and more shoppers than we've experienced in a long time.

"The important thing is the traffic," DuCharme added. "This rebate thing has produced the traffic, and traffic produces sales."

AMC is offering $200 rebates on 1975 Hornets and Gremlins, $400 rebates on the Hornet X and the Hornet Sportabout with deluxe and touring packages, a $300 rebate on the Matador Coupe and a $600 rebate on the Matador Cassini.

AMC scrapped its free second-year guarantee, when it adopted the rebate plan, DuCharme said. The second year guarantee is now available for an additional charge of $99.

DuCharme said sales at his dealership were down about 50 per cent over last year before the rebate plan was instituted. He attributes the flurry in sales to renewed customer confidence.

"I think people are excited and have a new air of confidence," he said. "They think this is going to get the ball rolling again. You can feel it when they go into the showroom. There are people who are laid off—I'm not an ostrich with my head in a hole. But the people who are working have money."

THE SALES at Colony Chrysler Plymouth, 111 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, is much the same.

"It's super," owner Dominic Marino said of Chrysler's rebate plan. "We've seen more business in the past month than we've seen in the past eight months. Traffic is tremendous."

Sales since the rebate plan was instituted jumped 110 per cent over November, Marino said, when sales were down 13 per cent over previous months.

Chrysler's rebate plan differs from other auto companies as the rebate umbrella covers different sets of cars each week.

In the Plymouth line of cars, Chrysler this week is offering $200 rebates on Satellites and Furys and additional $100 rebates if customers trade in 1971 or 1972 Torinos or Chevelles.

General Motors is offering $200 rebates on Vegas and Novas and $500 rebates on Monzas in its Chevrolet line of cars.

"It's the little shot in the arm we all needed," said Lou LaRiche, owner of Lou LaRiche Chevrolet, 40875 Plymouth Road, Plymouth. "People are buying other models as well as those on rebate."

LaRiche said sales at his dealership have jumped 100 per cent, since the rebate plan was implemented.

"Sales were terrible before," he said. "We were headed toward our worse January in years."

IN ITS PONTIAC line, GM is offering $200 rebates on 1975 Astres and Venturas.

Joseph Wallace, sales manager of Bruce Craig Pontiac, Inc., said the rebate plan has spurred large car sales at his dealership, but few customers are purchasing the small Astres and Venturas.

"It has built floor traffic," Wallace said, "but very few people are buying small cars. People come in and look at the small cars, and turn around and buy the big ones.

"I think many people were waiting for something like this to happen," Wallace added. "I believe the rebates will stir auto sales."

But will sales continue at their quickened rate, when rebates are removed on March 1?

"That's a good question," said LaRiche of Chevrolet sales. "I think it's going to be different when they pull the rebates off. I think people may pull back again."

DuCharme is more optimistic, "particularly if there's good news in the paper."

"These sour headlines hit everyone and begin to affect the economy," DuCharme said. "We want good news, but, of course, not lies in the paper. We don't want any more reports of lay-offs. We want reports of people going back to work."

Moceri PUD denied

Don't leave the blame for Mr. Moceri just because he isn't here. At least when you come before this board you can talk honestly and openly."

Treasurer Carl Parsell added, "I think we should note that the reason this PUD agreement for Canton Center Woods is not being accepted is because of the recommendation of our planner, not because of what you have done in the past."

Any further action on Canton Center Woods development, proposed for Joy and Sheldon, will have to wait until the planning commission makes its recommendations on the project.

Plymouth Schools sell site for road

PLYMOUTH—New or widened roads will be built on part of one school site and take up all of a second.

The Plymouth Community Schools approved the sale of the two parcels of property to the state and county road commissions which will return about $65,000 to the district.

Lying along the route of the new I-696 expressway, school site No. 2 on Ridge Road, south of Five Mile has been sold to the Michigan State Highway Commission. Purchase price on the property was set at $60,600.

The school district had purchased the 10-acre parcel in 1958 for about $20,000. Funds from the sale will be returned to building and site accounts and cannot be used for instructional purposes.

The second sale involved 27 feet of frontage at the Tanger school property on Five Mile, for road widening in front of the school.

Assistant supt. for business Ray Hoedel noted the road will be widened to five lanes in front of the school, but that just east of the property, the road will remain a two-lane thoroughfare. Students will cross Five Mile at this point, Hoedel said, to ensure a safer crossing for students.

Hoedel said the widening would also make access to the school safer for buses, with a left turn lane available in front of the school.

Purchase price by the Wayne County Road Commission was $5,750 and, like the other funds, this money will be returned to building and site accounts.

The Stroller

A salesman offers a reply

By W.W. EDGAR

Did you ever toss a stone into a pond and stand back to see how far the ripples traveled? It is amazing just how far the ripples carry.

A writer does the same thing with words. He'll drop a few in the public prints and then wait to learn if they caused any real action.

The Stroller did this a week ago when he suggested that salesmanship had become a lost art. He went even further by stating that despite the drive to rid the company lots of new cars by offering rebates, he never had been asked to purchase a new automobile.

HE DIDN'T have to wait long for the reaction.

No sooner had he reported for duty following distribution of the paper than the phone rang.

The caller didn't waste any time. He asked:

Has the furniture dealer ever driven over to your home to show you a new davenport—or brought along a new rug or a roll of carpet?"

Taken a bit by surprise, The Stroller said, "You must have the wrong number."

"Aren't you the fellow who claimed he never was called upon to buy a new car?"

When The Stroller confessed, the caller shouted again:

"Does your tailor drop in at your home to show you the latest styles, or the shoe dealer bring over the finest things in foot wear?"

Come to think of it, they never have. The caller was driving home his point and he made the most of it by asking:

"HOW ABOUT your food supply? Does the fellow down at the store call and invite you down to look at the freshest food, or does the baker, as a friend, call and tell you he has just completed baking a batch of your favorite bread?"

The caller was in high gear as he continued:

"How about the man at the vegetable counter. Does he call you when the various items arrive or when the first ears of home grown corn arrive in the fall?"

THE STROLLER had to admit that when he is in the market for a new suit he heads for the clothing store or to the footwear section when he is in need of new gear.

He admitted that he sometimes accompanies his wife to the market to do the weekly shopping—and that he doesn't go by invitation of the manager.

"Well," the caller chuckled, knowing he had The Stroller in a corner, "if that is the case, why are you so concerned because the automobile slaesman doesn't drive a new model up to your door and ask you to take a ride?

"What have you got against us? We're only doing what your tailor does, or the supermarket manager or the head of the footwear department.

"We put our items on display, too," he went on, "and when you are in the market for a new car, why don't you come down and look us over just as you do with your tailor when you need a new suit?"

WOULD YOU believe it, in the next mail came a letter from Red, my salesman friend, enclosing four bonus tickets to be used on the purchase of new cars.

The ripples coming from the printed word had done their job, and furnished another example of why journalism is so interesting.

MARY PERNA

New arrivals at the library

Elisabeth Kubler-Ross. "On Death and Dying." Originally published in 1969, this book grew out of a seminar where dying patients were encouraged to share their wants, anxieties and fears with those professionally involved with the terminally ill. It shows a humane approach to relieving the psychological suffering of the terminally ill in a world where advanced technology and science often work to depersonalize the patient.

Dr. Kubler-Ross says, "It is hoped that it will encourage others not to shy away from the 'hopelessly' sick but to get closer to them, as they can help them much during their final hours. The few who can do this will also discover that it will be a mutually gratifying experience and they will learn much about the functioning of the human mind, the unique human aspects of our existence, and will emerge from it enriched and perhaps with fewer anxieties about their own finality."

Stephen Longstreet. "The General." Through flashbacks, the life of "The General" is depicted from a boyhood in Montana, through a West Point appointment, three marriages, and the ups and downs of a military career. The story comes full circle as the President is faced with choosing the next General of the Armies—the five-star status Copperwood desires above all else.

Mary McCarthy. "The Mask of State: Watergate Portraits." During the Watergate hearings, Mary McCarthy, on commission from "The Observer" of London, wrote six reports from Washington telling the amazing story of deceit and arrogance in the Nixon administration. She wrote two others for "The New York Review of Books." The reports have been greatly revised and amplified for this book.

THE BUFFET dinner was better than Bart Berg's grimace might suggest as the festivity goers enjoyed roast beef, ham, and barbecued chicken at the Chamber's first social event.

Canton Chamber hosts first annual banquet

CANTON—Chamber of Commerce President Bart Berg expressed delight over the "100 plus turnout" at the first social event in the short two year history of the chamber.

Billed as a "get acquainted dance," the Saturday night festivities included good food, dancing and a slide presentation on Wayne State University by featured speaker and president of the university, George E. Gullen Jr.

THE DANCE, held at the Hawthorne Valley Country Club in Westland, started at 6 p.m. with a cocktail hour, followed by dinner and Gullen's presentation, and dancing until 1 a.m. to Joe Cairo and his band.

Gullen's speech was preceded by a talk on the upcoming trade fair to be held in Belleville in conjunction with the Canton Chamber. Kurt Atchison, Vice President of the Belleville Chamber, spoke enthusiastically of the May fair to be held at the 4-H grounds off of I-94.

The Canton Chamber has been in existence for two years, but since September membership has more than doubled from 28 members to 64. The dance and supper was as Berg put it, " for all of us to get acquainted and leave with many new friends."

JOYCE WILLIS, Canton Chamber Secretary, estimated the turnout at "around 115" with the biggest contingent from the Wayne Bank, who sent 11 people to join the festivities.

Notable guests included Jim McCartney, president of the Plymouth Chamber and director of the Plymouth-Canton Development Commission, former planning commissioner Wes Kaiser, former treasurer and planning commissioner Grant Campbell, planning commission member Robert Simmons, Treasurer Carl Parsell, and WSU Board of Governors member and former Wayne-Westland School board member Norman O. Stockmeyer.

Stockmeyer introduced Gullen, an referred to Berg as friends for so long "that I don't care to say since when."

Berg concluded the evening dinner speeches by saying, "I hope this starts a tradition and is the first of many such annual dinners."

GEORGE E. GULLEN Jr., president of Wayne State University,was the featured speaker at the Chamber of Commerce dinner dance and he talked on the growth and virtues of his university.

THE HEAD table at the Chamber dinner-dance had representatives from the Plymouth and Belleville chambers as well as guests Norman O. Stockmeyer of the State Board of Education and featured speaker George E. Gullen Jr., President of Wayne State University.

CANTON TREASURER Carl Parsell was the only township government official to attend the Canton Chamber of Commerce "get acquainted dinner dance," but that didn't seem to prevent him from having a good time.

Any male chauvinists in the house?

SC trustee claims there are

By DENNY COFFMAN

LIVONIA—The Battle of the Sexes was enjoined briefly, but vehemently, at perhaps one of the most unlikely battlegrounds Jan. 22.

Unidentified male members of the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees were accused by one of the board's two female trustees of being "male chauvinists."

"I know who are the chauvinists here. I think we all do," said Trustee Rodina Raymond.

The remark came during board discussion of the qualifications of the newly appointed director of community services, Mrs. Jean Christensen.

Mrs. Christensen was hired Dec. 16 to replace Nancy Dufour, who left to take another job.

The National Organization for Woman (NOW) objected to hiring Mrs. Christensen because she allegedly said part of her office—the Women's Resource Center—would not be a "front" for NOW.

Mrs. Christensen's duties include recruiting, training and supervising the center's volunteer staff to help meet the educational and life-style needs of women.

NOW, which is active in the movement for greater rights for women, was concerned it might be barred from having a voice in resource center activities.

Sylvia Vukmirovich, chairperson of NOW's Education Task Force, told John LaRue, chairman of the Board of Trustees, the college "had not hired the most qualified applicant for the job."

Mrs. Raymond, in a position paper submitted to the board, questioned whether the most qualified person was in fact hired to the women's post.

Dr. C. Nelson Grote, Schoolcraft College president, said Mrs. Christensen was chosen from among 118 candidates for the job.

Grote said Mrs. Christensen was qualified and well received, although she has been at her new job just a month.

"We have to give her a chance," said Grote.

He said Mrs. Christensen recently has become involved with NOW.

The controversy was largely confined to a minor political struggle among NOW members and the community service director until Trustee Arch Vallier argued that the appointment was "none of their darn business," referring to NOW.

Vallier prompted a remark by Mrs. Raymond, who said she was "philosophically in accord with NOW."

Mrs. Raymond added: "While there are some male trustees who believe women are equals, some are chauvinists. And, if the shoe fits, wear it."

U-M plans program on metrics

Teaching the meric system to children will be among the major topics at the 25th annual Mathematics Education Conference Feb. 8 at the University of Michigan.

The conference will be held in Angell and Mason Halls on the U-M central campus, sponsored by the U-M School of Education and department of mathematics, in cooperation with the University Extension Service.

"An American Looks at Britain's Changeover to the Metric System" will be the opening presentation by Herbert Hannon of Western Michigan University. Also scheduled is Robert E.K. Rourke speaking on "Some Properties of Well-Rounded Squares."

Topics of interest to faculty at all levels of education will be discussed during workshops.

A pre-conference leadership conference will be held Feb. 7 in the Rackham Building. Interested persons should contact Professor Joseph N. Payne, 1029 School of Education Building, U-M, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48104.

Registration materials and information about the conference may be obtained from the U-M Extension Service, Dept. of Conferences and Institutes, 350 S. Thayer, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48104.

Livonia bank lowers interest for car loans

Manufacturers Bank of Livonia is offering new car loans at reduced rates from now to March 1.

The lower rates is an additional incentive to help boost auto sales in the Detroit market, explains Charles G. Bell, president and chief executive officer of the bank headquartered at 37460 Five Mile, Livonia.

The interest rate will be reduced on a 36 month contract from an annual percentage rate of 11.08 to 9.31 per cent and will result in savings to the buyer ranging from $90 to $150.

On an average auto loan of $3,555 for 36 months, says Bell, the net rate will save the buyer $105.12.

The reduced rate will apply to any new car, '74 and '75 models, financed through the bank for terms up to 36 months. It will apply to loans made directly with the bank or indirectly through the dealer.

The purchaser, however, must be approved for credit and must have a minimum 25 per cent downpayment.

W. W. Edgar (right) recalls 'cheap' meals with Joe Louis and thinks...

Dining-out prices are shocking

By W.W. EDGAR

It's a good thing Rip Van Winkle awoke when he did. Had he awakened today and ended his 20-year slumber in time for dinner, he would have been shocked into another long sleep by the prices he'd see on the menus in our leading eating establishments.

No one knows the exact date when the legendary Rip went to sleep, but it is a certainty that the cost of food in the emporiums of his time was a lot less than it is today.

Even if it were only 40 years ago that he dozed off, the prices then were far below what one has to pay for a not too lavish meal in today's spiraling economy.

ONE OF THE MOST famous restaurants in the country 40 years ago was Jack Dempsey's at the corner of Eighth Avenue and 50th Street in New York City. It was across from Madison Square Garden—the seat of the boxing industry. And no trip there was complete without a visit to see the old "Mannassa Mauler," who still is the most popular of all heavyweight champions.

It is just four decades ago that Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber, went East for the first time as a professional fighter to meet Primo Carnera, the Ambling Alp. One of the first stops the accompanying sports writers made was at Dempsey's for an evening meal.

To be exact, it was June 1935, and would you believe it, the special for that day was a salad with 10 different health ingredients for 35 cents!

HERE ARE JUST a few of the items on the menu that day, and they are almost believable: broiled young lobster, $1.50; tenderloin steak, $1.85; whole young guinea hen, $1.75; prime ribs of beef, $1.25; and roast young duckling, $1.65.

Even at those figures the Old Champ was criticized as a gouger. As one of the writers' commented, "Don't tell me he has lost his punch—not with prices like that."

Things are a great deal different today. If Old Rip were to awaken and walk into Vargo's in Livonia he'd be more than startled to find that one of the cheapest meals on the gourmet menu would be Lake Superior white fish at $6.25. And if he wanted a steak it would be a filet mignon at $8.75. Or if he yearned for a seafood platter, it would be available at $12.95. Even a couple of lamb chops would set him back $7.75.

STROLLING OVER to Taylor's in Livonia, Rip would find that a porterhouse steak would cost him $7.50 and even chopped sirloin (hamburger) would be tagged at $4.75, with an extra charge for the onions.

Should Old Rip look for some old Bavarian favorites he could find them at Huck's in Redford Township. Here a steak would cost him $8.50, and the old favorite of pig hocks and sauerkraut could be had for $6.

By chance he had dropped into the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth on New Year's Eve he'd have found only five entrees on the menu and the least expensive of these was crabmeat-stuffed fillet of flounder at $6.50. Anything else would have been $7.50.

Had he wandered into the Mayflower Steak House, instead, he'd have found the smallest steak (without all the trimmings) would have cost him $3.95 and the New York Strip, $4.95.

HAD HE changed his mind and decided to ring out the old year and ring in the new at the Hillside Inn, he could have enjoyed broiled lobster tidbits at $9.50, or deep-fried gulfstream shrimp at $7.25.

And if he had heard the rumor that in this day and age we were close to paying $10 for steaks, he would have found we are just a nickel short, with New York strips, and tenderloins pegged at $9.95 each.

With news like that, can there be any doubt Old Rip would be shocked and grumble off to another slumber lasting, perhaps, more than 20 years?

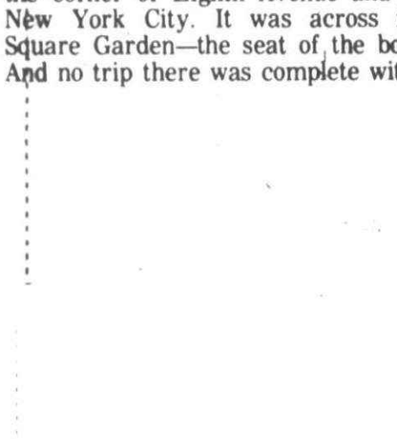
New county chairman lists goals for board



ROSCOE L. BOBO
new county chairman

The new chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, Roscoe L. Bobo, lists senior citizen housing, community health centers, improved juvenile programs and new jail facilities as goals for an affirmative action program for the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Bobo, a Democrat from Ecorse, is the first black member ever elected chairman of the county board of commissioners since its inception as an elected board in 1969.

BOBO, 62, is a former Ecorse councilman and the retired assistant police chief of that city. He is starting his third two-year term on the county board.

Commissioner John Barr (D-Dearborn Heights), who is serving his second term, was elected vice-chairman. Bobo, who was vice-chairman last year, replaces Robert FitzPatrick who resigned from the board to run unsuccessfully for U.S. Congress in the 17th District.

In assessing 1975, Bobo warned that the current recession will curtail county revenues. He said he will call an early meeting with department heads to stress the need for economy and efficiency.

BOBO DECLARED he would give priority consideration to seven programs.

"My first action as chairman will be to review all our manpower programs to ensure every possible cent of federal money that can be used to put persons to work is brought into Wayne County and that these funds are translated into paychecks for the unemployed as quickly as possible."

The county government, which administers manpower programs outside the City of Detroit, has been allocated $5.2 million in federal funds for public service jobs in recent weeks. Some of the money will be passed on to local communities.

The Wayne County Juvenile Facilities Network program to prevent and reduce delinquency must be improved and expanded, Bobo said.

Health centers, operated by Wayne County General Hospital, he continued, should be established in areas where there are persons, such as invalids and senior citizens, who don't have or cannot afford transportation to the hospital.

Bobo said he would request an early meeting with leaders of the Michigan Legislature to discuss the county's request for a $30 million state loan to finance additional jail facilities.

BOBO URGED the board of commissioners to adopt soon his resolution to establish a county housing commission to obtain federal funds for senior citizen housing.

"Many of our senior citizens are living in substandard housing, admist deplorable health and safety conditions."

Bobo proposed that Detroit and Wayne County set up a joint capital improvements committee to plan construction of new courts building and other needed public facilities.

He promised to press for improvement of the county civil service system to eliminate discrimination and for adoption of an affirmative action program for hiring minorities.

"Wayne County, the third largest county in the U.S., does not yet have a coherent and effective affirmative action program. This can no longer be tolerated by this board of commissioners."

Bobo won the chairmanship on the first ballot with 21 votes. The only other nominee, Commissioner Ervin A. Steiner, Jr. (R-Grosse Pointe Farms), got two votes. There were four abstentions.

Barr received 23 votes to two for his only opponent, Commissioner Mary E. Dumas (R-Livonia). There were two abstentions.

Mrs. Dumas and Steiner, the only Republican board members, nominated and voted for each other for the two posts.

Area commissioners assigned committees

Richard Manning, Mary Dumas and Tom Taylor have received their committee appointments from the new chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, Roscoe L. Bobo.

Bobo (D-Ecorse) has named Manning (D-Redford) as chairman of the general government committee. Mrs. Dumas (R-Livonia) has been appointed vice chairman of that committee.

Taylor (D-Westland), whose district includes Garden City, has been named a member of the public works committee along with Royce E. Smith (D-Belleville) whose district includes Plymouth area and Canton Township.

Receiving the most important committee assignment is Samuel A. Turner (D-Detroit) who was named chairman of the ways and iVans committee. Taylor was designated vice chairman of this committee. This is a move up for Taylor, a former Westland policeman, who was among those in the running for board chairman this year.

The appointments are for one-year terms, says Bobo, and were made with advice from John Barr (D-Dearborn Heights) who has been elected vice chairman of the board of commissioners.

John Lesinski (D-Dearborn) kept his chairmanship of the public works committee. Named vice-chairman was Edgar Harris (D-Taylor).

Edward K. Michalski (D-Detroit) and William G. Suzore (D-Lincoln Park) were appointed chairman and vice chairman respectively of the public safety and judiciary committee. Jarrette Simmons (D-Detroit) was named chairman of the human resources committee.

Of the two Republicans on the 27-member board, Mrs. Dumas was the only one to receive a committee office. The other Republican, Ervin A. Steiner, Jr. of Grosse Pointe was named a member of the human resources committee.

Esch proposes U.S. tax credit on auto sales

U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch (R-Ann Arbor) has proposed a new incentive to stimulate automobile sales in the U.S.

Esch's proposal would provide a tax credit for anyone purchasing a new car in 1975. The credit would be $250 for a car that receives at least 15 miles per gallon average between city and road, and $100 for a car with less millage per gallon.

If the car is purchased before April 15, the taxpayer would be able to apply the credit against his 1974 taxes. Thus the legislation, if passed, might have an immediate impact on new car sales.

He believes the program would cost about $2 billion, but adds that "we will spend two or three times thant amount in unemployment compensation this year.

"One out of every five industrial jobs in the country is related in some way to the auto industry. If we can stimulate sales and get the auto industry back to full production, we will be making a significant contribution to putting our unemployed back to work," Esch explained.

SC, WSU expect recommendation for center

A Citizens Advisory Council is expected to recommend that Schoolcraft College and Wayne State University be chosen to occupy the now-vacant Child Development Center at Northport," said Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote at a Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees meeting Jan. 22.

The council will meet with the Public Works Committee of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors Feb. 4 to give its choices from a list of a dozen applicants for the site.

"It would be a good thing if this ghost town were serving us and [illegible] State," said Trustee Regina Raymond, referring to the center.

The property includes dormitories, cafeteria, medical facilities, shops and classrooms. It is considered ideal for a college campus.

Grote indicated Schoolcraft probably would enter into a lease arrangement for the property with Wayne State.

The advisory council reportedly favors the center's facilities be made available to all community colleges.

Flood insurance to be explained

Repercussions of the new Federal Flood Plain Insurance legislation will be explained at a meeting in Southfield Monday, Feb. 3, by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

The meeting, open to the public, will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the parks and recreation building of the Southfield Civic Center, 26000 Evergreen between 10 and 11 Mile Roads in Southfield.

AT THE MEETING, held at the request of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), representatives of SEMCOG will explain why communities which do not adhere to the new legislation will be ineligible for:

Federally funded flood insurance; federal funds or federally guaranteed loans for building in flood plains; federal disaster relief funds for flooded areas.

The National Flood Insurance Program is federally subsidized and authorized by the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 to protect property owners who had been unable to get affordable coverage through the private insurance industry.

The Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 expanded the available limits of flood insurance coverage and imposed added requirements on property owners and communities.

Among the new requirements are applying for the insurance by July 1, 1975 as a condition of receiving any form of federally related assistance for construction or acquisition of real or personal property.

SOME 106 Michigan communities, about 80 of these in southeast Michigan, have recently been identified by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) as flood hazard areas not enrolled in a national flood insurance program.

If those governing bodies don't apply for entry by July 1, their federally guaranteed loans and grants will be jeopardized as well as residents' eligibility for FHA or bank loans on local real estate, mobile homes and in some cases personal property.

Richard S. Watt, hydrologic engineer for the DNR, says the situtation is "potentially serious for both residents and communities.

"Anyone dealing with federal money will have to have flood insurance to qualify if they live in a designated flood-prone area." Watt urged citizens in this region to attend the meeting.

Among the speakers who will tell residents how to protect themselves will be Watt and representatives of the HUD flood insurance office and the Insurance Company of North America (INA).

Gasoline choice: Pay up or wait in line

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

The biggest hot potato in American politics these days is the question of what to do to cut the nation's dependence on outside oil supplies by reducing the demand for petroleum products—and who will take responsibility for making the decision.

Unfortunately, the two major proposals so far advanced—increasing the price of gas at the pumps by taxation or restricting the supply by rationing—both penalize folks who live in the suburbs.

Let's consider the advantages and disadvantages of both proposals from a suburban point of view.

ON THE SURFACE, President Ford's proposal to drive down demand for gas by taxing imported crude oil seems fair and sensible. It would not entail the vast bureaucracy that a rationing system would, and it would depend on the mechanisms of the free market to restrict use of gas as its price rises.

But, suburbanites do much, much more driving than the rest of the population, and hence an increase in gas prices would affect us in the suburbs much, much more than the rest of the country.

Many people live in the suburbs but work in downtown Detroit or elsewhere, and because there is essentially no worthwhile mass transit in this area they are dependent on their car (and expensive gas) to get to work. Even people who live and work in the suburbs are required by the spread-out nature of our community geography to use their car to drive to work or take the kids to school or shop.

The only counter-argument to this suburban analysis is that, in general, people in the suburbs are richer than people who live downtown or in rural areas, and that to tax by increased gas prices wealthy suburbanites is fair.

THE RATIONING example would not penalize us in the suburbs directly in the pocketbook, but it sure would louse up our ordinary life style.

Almost surely the consequence of rationing would be restricted gas supplies to almost all of us. How many of us could continue our ordinary driving style on only nine gallons a week, as the Administration predicts the results for rationing would be? Not many.

And for suburbanites, no alternate means of transportation are available when gas supplies are restricted.

Hence, on these grounds, rationing seems like the worst possible alternative for us.

THERE IS ONE WAY out of the bind.

If we do not want to accept the progressive tax on suburbanites that an increase in gas taxes would entail, and if we want to maintain some kind of equity in gas availability that rationing would threaten, it would do well to consider the rationing plan suggested, among others, by Rep. Henry Reuss, newly named chairman of the House Banking Committee.

He would have a series of local boards, which would hold hearings for each recipient of gas rationing cards to determine the extent of normal and necessary driving, and adjust the gas allocation accordingly.

This system would be fair, but clumsy and probably very time consuming. It probably would be open to all kinds of abuses.

Hence, as is so often the case, there is no really perfect answer to the big problems. We can tax gas, and hence disproportionately tax ourselves in the suburbs. We can ration gas, and threaten ourselves with serious curtailment of our ordinary way of life. Or we can set up neighborhood boards, which will result in confusion and delay.

You pay your money (or wait in your line at the pumps) and take your choice.

editorial opinion

Those whippersnappers are certainly biased

By CORINNE ABATT

Once you pass any one of several milestones—you celebrate your silver anniversary, you're somebody's mother or father, you make mortgage payments and worry about pension plans—you automatically qualify for a subtle type of discrimination.

The young practice it on their elders with wry smiles or giggles and much arm nudging. The 30s group are more subtle as they take quiet shots at the 40s and so on up the rungs of the chronological ladder.

IT'S A GAME played with adjective switches and qualifying phrases, and the next person who says I look pretty good 'for my age' is going to find himself strung up with a typewriter ribbon because I am also pretty fit—for my age.

Start with females. A pretty young thing is a "natural beauty." An older pretty thing is well-preserved.

That sexy back porch swing in young women is attributed to muscle tone. In the older ones, it's due to arthritis.

In both sexes, the young lose things because they're not concentrating. Their elders because they're forgetful...or senile.

A young divot digger on the golf course is an amateur—his older counterpart is a duffer. (Better they should both be hacks.)

The young have their stereos on full blast because they like loud music. The older folks turn their radios up because they're hard of hearing.

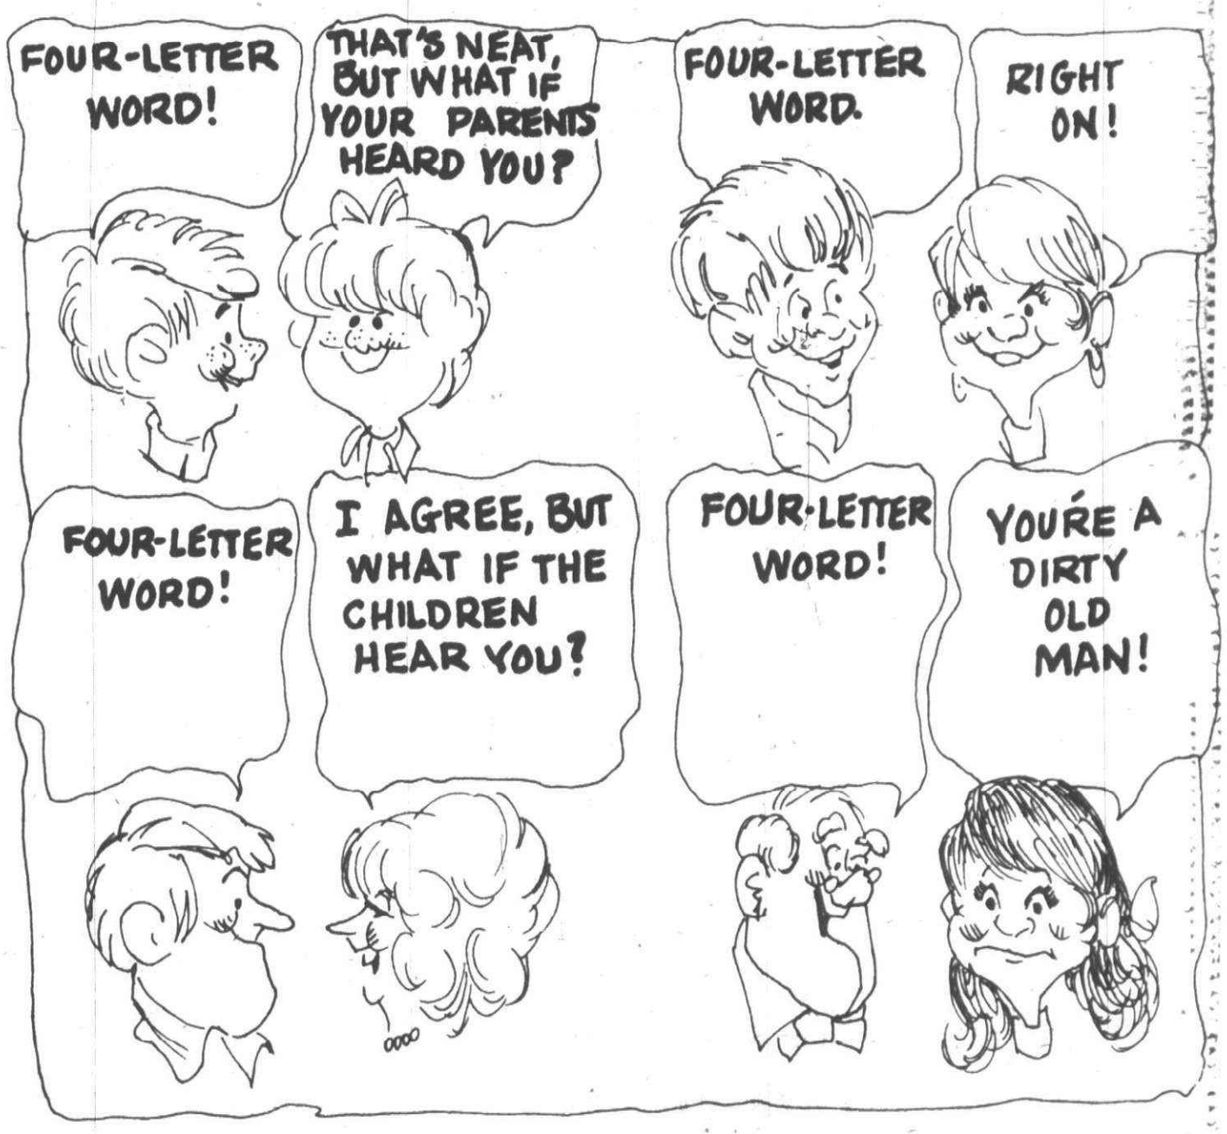
When a college student orates non-stop, he's verbal. His father lectures or sermonizes.

FOUR-LETTER words in young vocabularies are "slang." In Grandpa's speech, they're dirty language.

A pass by a clean cut young man goes almost unnoticed. If his father makes the same friendly swipe, he's a dirty old man.

Behind their backs, most moms and dads are 'the old man' and 'the old lady' even though many of them can out think, outrun and outlove their offspring.

Just to prove that I am very fair (for my age), I suggest that if we chuck discriminatory names such as duffers and dirty old men, we toss punks and hippies into the same bag of discards.



FOUR-LETTER WORD!
THAT'S NEAT, BUT WHAT IF YOUR PARENTS HEARD YOU?
FOUR-LETTER WORD.
RIGHT ON!
FOUR-LETTER WORD!
I AGREE, BUT WHAT IF THE CHILDREN HEAR YOU?
FOUR-LETTER WORD!
YOURE A DIRTY OLD MAN!

Malpractice law needed

R. T. Thompson writes

The bugaboo of malpractice law suits isn't a bugaboo for doctors any more, especially in the states of Michigan and Ohio where recent awards by juries have forced several companies carrying the insurance to drop it or to raise premiums to a point where doctors are seriously considering retiring.

Just one such malpractice suit and a huge award by a jury could wipe out all the savings of a doctor who had been in the profession for 25 or more years.

Thus, at a time when most doctors are thinking of limiting their practices and living a normal life again, they are now faced with the malpractice bugaboo.

IT WAS BROUGHT to the attention of the public in Michigan several months ago when one major insurer let it be known it was dropping that kind of business.

It didn't exactly appreciate the thought of having to raise premiums to a point where doctors couldn't afford to pay or a point where the doctors would have to charge the additional costs back to their patients.

We recently received a letter from the wife of a doctor who spent nine years of his life in colleges getting the knowledge to become an internist. This included four years in medical school, one year of internship, four years of surgical residency and two more years of specialty.

This unnamed internist is in a position where he feels he may have to give up his practice because he can't afford malpractice insurance and he can't afford to continue practicing without the insurance.

His premium six years ago was $750 and now is being raised to $18,000 annually That's quite a hike, regardless of what kind of business a person is in, and when a doctor has to consider spreading that cost back to his patients.... well one can readily see what kind of a problem arises.

WE HAPPEN TO KNOW quite a few doctors, have more than a passing acquaintanceship with a great many who have played a major role in our destiny during the past three years.

We know that most doctors are not reaping fortunes, as many people believe. They are hard working individuals, doing their best to keep patients healthy and alive. They don't succeed in all cases for the type of disease makes it impossible, but we never ran across a doctor that could be accused of malpractice.

The situation in Michigan is probably as acute as any in the entire United States. This was brought out a few weeks back when the anesthetist in St.Mary Hospital notified the entire staff of doctors that they were considering moving to another state where malpractice suits aren't as common.

Michigan has been hit as hard as any other state and, with California and perhaps Ohio, ranks at the top of the list.

The situation is particularly bad in Ohio, where the insurer can drop a policy without giving the insured advance notice.

The sixth largest insurer in Ohio dropped that bomb on eight doctors at St. Vincent Hospital there. Almost at the same time, another insurer notified a group of doctors covered by a blanket policy that the premium was being boosted from $48,000 per year to $360,000.

AT THE PRESENT moment, it is estimated the cost to patients is $1.50 to $2 per visit if the doctor is able to find an insurer. If not, then he appears to have two options: to pay the costs of lawsuits and face the possibility of a jury making an award of thousands of dollars for which he would personally be responsible, or give up his practice.

Can you imagine a hospital trying to get along without anesthetists? St. Mary Hospital wouldn't be in that position if its unit decided to go elsewhere, but it would be losing a group that is considered one of the finest in this section of the United States.

And why? Because of the constant threats of malpractice suits. We hope the Michigan Legislature realizes the importance of this situation and does take action to ease and correct it during the present session.

Mayor of special interests

Isn't it about time that the honeymoon ends for Coleman Young, mayor of Detroit?

For many years the blacks in Detroit have been saying that Detroit's problems could be solved if a black mayor were elected, because he would represent the majority. This generality has put Detroit where it is today.

What Detroit needs is a good administrator, whether he be black or white, because the running of Detroit is a big business.

IN HIS TERM of office, Coleman Young has proven that he is a mayor of special interests, a politician, and a poor administrator.

The latest example is hiring a girl as the temporary head of the law department in Detroit for close to $40,000 a year. She graduated from law school less than a year ago, flunked the bar exam and has never practiced law.

Prior to that appointment, he put his girl friend on the payroll as head of the Bicentennial celebration at over $35,000 a year. When the Free Press investigated what was being done by her department the answer came back, "nothing."

One of the first things he did as mayor of Detroit was to put Stress out of business. If you remember, this was the operation of the Detroit police department where plain clothesmen roamed the streets of Detroit, luring street robbers into a trap, arresting them and taking them off the streets.

Since Stress is no longer operational, major street crimes have increased dramatically in the city of Detroit.

We have always said in this paper that the suburbanites owe a duty to the core city to see that it is healthy because there are no fine suburbs if you have a deteriorated core city.

BUT THE MAYOR of Detroit apparently doesn't want suburban help and was even considering the closing of the Detroit Institute of Art because it cost the city of Detroit money to operate and is used primarily by people who live outside of Detroit.

His parochialism and reversed racism has now made Detroit one of the sickest cities in the nation.

We would all like to be positive about Detroit because it has many fine attributes, but the longer Coleman Young remains in office the more difficult it is to try to be positive about the city.

Coleman Young is in office to stay for a long time unless he is recalled by the voters. Obviously, suburbanites have no role in such a recall. Because Coleman Young is black it is doubtful that there would be enough voters in Detroit who would petition for a recall for fear that they would be accused of racism.

Yet, if Young were white, there's a good chance that he would have been booted out of office shortly after his election because of the way he has been running Detroit for his own special group of people, and these are not the black people in general.

He is not helping Detroit and we are sitting helplessly watching the city deteriorate.

Redford rejoins regional fold

Redford Township has long been the most populous unit with township government in the United States, and in its level of services it is probably one of the most developed, too. Unfortunately, for the last four years, Redford—whose proud residents always refer to it as "The Township"—has sort of let the rest of the world go by in terms of its regional citizenship.

That defect has now happily been corrected by the decision of the township board to rejoin the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. Much credit goes to the new supervisor, Patrick McDonald, whose attitude seems to be one of business as usual rather than small town politics as usual.

Redford Township recognized that SEMCOG is more than a vague, paper-pushing planning agency, although planning is an important function. SEMCOG's staff knows how to help pry money out of Washington; SEMCOG approves federal grants; SEMCOG will design the regional bus and rapid transit system; SEMCOG will appoint six of the nine members of the transit authority; SEMCOG has solid waste and criminal justice improvement programs.

You can't get the benefits—or squawk about the regional players— unless you buy into the program. Redford Township trustees saw their responsibility and rose to the occasion.

Westland and Garden City need to reconsider their positions in the larger community of southeast Michigan. SEMCOG could benefit from their different points of view. When you fail to be an active participant in the region, it's like being in the State of Michigan and not sending a senator or representative to Lansing. You cripple everyone else and yourself, too.

What's 'coordinated bargaining'?

Editor:

It is my opinion as a teacher that you (Philip Power—"Observation Point," Jan. 16) do not understand coordinated bargaining. It is not a group of teachers getting together "with a clump of school boards to determine wages and working conditions for schools in a given region."

Each district in coordinated bargaining works in their own school system for a contract with their own board of education, not with a "clump."

Coordinated bargaining teachers only support the other teachers in other districts if they are fired, as they were in Crestwood. Coordinated bargaining does not say Crestwood gets a contract because we as a group say so.

What we don't want is teachers fired.

Coordinated bargaining is a real need for small districts where teachers can be threatened or fired by a whim of boards of education. Coordinated bargaining does not guarantee any teacher a contract. That has to be settled in the district with one board of education.

Teachers are tired of always looking like the bad guy in bargaining disputes. The board's side always gets the News media. Teachers are tired of threats and firings. Teachers want to protect their right to collective bargain.

Regional or statewide control may or may not be the answer, but there must be an answer somewhere without teachers' loss of rights. The public wants quality education and has never nor does it now want to pay the price. Teachers are tired of unselfish dedication, which is what the public asks of us. We are people, too, and must eat.

Boards of education have no right to fire us. Many people on boards of education don't even have a background in education. Teachers do have that background. They feel they have a right to say what is important in education because they know.

Anti-abortion step backwards

Editor:

A constitutional amendment to prohibit abortion would send us back to the days when millions of illegal abortions were performed, often under unsanitary conditions. Abortions were first outlawed to protect women from these medical dangers.

Today such protection is not needed. Abortion is a simple, safe procedure, many times less likely to be fatal than childbirth itself.

The constitution guarantees the right to privacy and equal protection under the law. No individual, married or single, should be hampered by the state in her efforts to secure contraceptives or in her decision whether or not to bear a child.

Legislating compulsory pregnancy will discriminate against the poor, since the rich will continue to have abortions in countries where they are legal or to pay discrete doctors to perform them.

Lawmaker aids distressed lady

Editor:

Who says legislators don't concern themselves with people's problems?

State Rep. John Markes (D-Westland) certainly proved otherwise recently when he stopped to assist a damsel in auto distress on the I-96 freeway near New Hudson.

Upon introducing himself as a legislator and offering to help, Rep. Markes found himself to be assisting a former Republican staffer. Undaunted by this discovery, Rep. Markes saw to it that the ailing auto was back on its track before continuing on his own way.

All of this proves that some legislators will go out of their way in helping people, and Rep. Markes is apparently one of those.

Stempien still a contender

Editor:

In a recent article by Tim Richard, possible contenders for the 2nd Congressional District seat were listed. Conspicuous in its absence was the name of Marvin R. Stempien, former three-term state representative from Livonia and Democratic nominee for Congress in 1972.

Although it is certainly early for any announcements of candidacy, those of us who supported Marv Stempien in 1972 would consider it a disservice to rule out a possmble "second chance" for Stempien at this early date.

After all, he is chairman of the Wayne portion of the 2nd District and commands considerable support from his old constituency, who would be the first to benefit if he was elected to Congress.

For all of Richard's crystal ball gazing, one would think that at this point Marv Stempien's name would be among the leading contenders for the congressional seat.

Those of us who were amply satisfied with his strong support of environmental, consumer, economic relief and enlightened foreign policy matters, would consider him such a contender, if he chooses to run.

ALAN C. HELMKAMP, Livonia

EDITOR'S NOTE: Stempien should have been listed as a congressional possibility.

Abortion agency drops confusing name

The director of an abortion counseling agency with offices in Livonia and Pontiac has agreed to stop using the words "Planned Parenthood" in connection with her centers' services.

The agreement on the part of Mrs. Betty Eason came just prior to a hearing scheduled in Federal Court in Detroit Jan. 27.

The hearing before Judge James P. Churchill was to have considered a request by Planned Parenthood League, Inc., that Mrs. Eason be enjoined from using the name in connection with her centers.

"She consented last Friday to the request," said her attorney, Robert Goren of Southfield. "She said she's not trying to harm anyone or cause any confusion."

GOREN EXPLAINED that Mrs. Eason had used the name Planned Parenthood of Oakland County among other names for offices at 19500 Middle Belt, Livonia, and 140 S. Saginaw, Pontiac.

"The name was approved by the state of Michigan and also by the state of Florida, neither of which had records that show it to be a name that has been patented federally," the attorney added.

"Betty did not believe it to be more than a phrase," he said.

THE COMPLAINT in Federal court was brought by Planned Parenthood Federation of America, New York, and the Washtenaw County League for Planned Parenthood in Ann Arbor as well as Planned Parenthood League, Inc.

David Gaskin, vice chairman of PPL, said requests that Mrs. Eason "cease using our name" had brought no response prior to the court action.

Main considerations in filing the suit, Gaskin said, were the matters of public confusion and financial support.

"Persons seeking assistance from our health organization— which is a well-respected non-profit organization in existence for over 35 years—are likely to be misled and instead treated by Betty Eason," he said.

"And we would not like to see funds intended for the work of PPL to go by mistake to any of Betty Eason's businesses."

THE LIVONIA CENTER operated by Mrs. Eason is listed in the telephone directory as "Women's Abortion Advisory Center." Staff members answering the phone use the term "Womancenter", and, if questioned about the full name of the organization, list it as "Women's Advisory Center."

"We counsel women who want to know about having an abortion or may have some doubts about it," the staff member said. "The Planned Parenthood name was just used as another name to be listed. It was a misunderstanding."

The office in Pontiac is listed in the telephone directory as "Midwest Gynecologists."

"It's a doctors' practice," said the staff member in Livonia.

Following the agreement this week, a spokesman for Planned Parenthood, Inc., said Mrs. Eason had stated she would not use the name in any manner.

"We hope this will end some of the confusion between the services she offers and the ones Planned Parenthood offers," the spokesman added.

Area students star in EMU play

Students from Garden City, Westland, Livonia and Plymouth will be featured in the Eastern Michigan University Players production "Richard III."

The show will be Jan. 31 and Feb. 1, 2, 6, 7 and 8 at 8 p.m. in Quirk Auditorium on the EMU campus at Ypsilanti.

Livonians featured include Larry Gilbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Gilbert, 29215 Bretton, who portrays the Duke of Norfold; Mike Mehney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mehney, 11404 Berwick, who plays the Duke of Clarence, and Ross Stutzmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stutzmann, 15631 Nola Circle, who has the role of Lord Stanley. Also, Mary Jo Tanguay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Tanguay, 14519 Melrose, plays Margaret.

Students from Plymouth are Dennis Cockrum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Cockrum, 8348 N. Territorial Road, who plays Sir Richard Ratcliffe, and Sue DeWalt, daughter of Mrs. Patricia DeWalt, 8309 Doe Lane, who plays a Lady of the Court.

Peter Muschamp, an exchange professor from Berkshire College in England, is the director.

"Richard is a man who seeks power and is prepared to gain that power and exercise it in an amoral way," says Muschamp. "Richard is an extremely seductive character. One minute you see him instigate the death of his brother by drowning him in wine, but the next you're laughing at him. It proves that people can be seduced by someone very powerful."

Most of the 46-member cast of "Richard III" have been rehearsing since November for scenes like "Battle of Bosworth Field." This lengthy scene features 24 actors in a battle choreographed by Fred Keating, speech and dramatic arts teacher at Eastern.

Tickets are priced at $2.50 and may be purchased at the Quirk box office.

Board recommends food stamp change

A resolution by Wayne County Commissioner Arthur M. Carter urging changes in the food stamp program has been unanimously approved by fellow commissioners.

The Carter resolution urges President Ford to restore the value of the stamps to the level which existed last Dec. 1 "so as to provide adequate food for the needy."

PROBLEMS enumerated by Carter include lack of sufficient application centers, restricted use of the department's mobile unit and the fact clients were uncertain regarding required documents.

The resolution states, "overworked food stamp office personnel are often dehumanizing to clients."

It says that post office employes assigned to sell food stamps frequently refer clients back to Social Services because the employes lack sufficient training and information.

Besides urging more personnel in food stamp offices, the resolution urges the state Legislature and Congress to appropiate emergency funds for several purposes.

ONE IS unrestricted use of a mobile application center, opening of more application centers, and training and sensitivity sessions for food stamp office personnel.

The resolution called "the latest in a growing crescendo of calls from public bodies" intends to solve some of the major problems which are hampering the enrollment of the growing numbers of unemployed in the food stamp program.

The resolution notes there are 79,550 households and 236,102 persons in Detroit and the rest of Wayne County who are eligible and in need of food stamps. It also cites a recent survey which estimates there are 100,000 persons with inadequate food in Detroit.

The day after the resolution was passed, Gov. Milliken announced the staff handling food stamp applications in Wayne County would be tripled with some 80 workers added to the 40 now processing applications.

Freeway bids OK for Livonia

Low bids for fabrication and delivery of structural steel for six bridges over I-96 in Livonia have been accepted by the Department of State Highways and Transportation.

The Livonia bids were among 13 freeway bridge projects approved by the highway department recently.

Apollo Fabricators, Inc. was lowest of three bidders at $595,541 for two bridges over I-96 now under construction in Livonia. Wendnagel & Co. was the lowest of five bidders for four bridges over the new freeway being built along Schoolcraft Road.

Rocks maul Trenton, 72-40

Salem cagers gear for Bulldog revenge

By FRED DeLANO

The high school basketball schedule finally pits Livonia Bentley against Plymouth Salem again Friday night, and it could be one of the classic battles of the season in this area.

Eagerness for this rematch actually started Dec. 10, the night Bentley handed now 11-1 Plymouth its only loss of the campaign as the Bulldogs came from behind on their own court to nip the Rocks, 79-78.

Until last weekend that defeat kept the defending champion Rocks out of the Suburban Eight lead, but then came Edsel Ford's upset of Dearborn and Plymouth's easy Saturday night win over Trenton, 72-40. Now the Sub 8 standings read:

Plymouth Salem 7-1, Dearborn and Belleville 6-2, Livonia Bentley and Edsel Ford 4-4, Trenton and Redford Union 2-6, and Allen Park 1-7.

Firing will start at 8 p.m., this time in the Plymouth gym, with a full house expected to see if the Bulldogs can prove their December victory was no fluke or whether the Rocks can run their record to 12-1.

As usual, it was 6-10 Eric Agardy, the area's No. 1 scorer, who set the pace against Trenton as Plymouth treated home fans to another triumph. The senior center came up with 17 points, but 10 of his teammates also were in the scoring column.

THE ICE COLD TROJANS could net only two points in the first period on a field goal by Kevin Nash, who led them with 13 points, and at the end of that stanza the Rocks were in front, 13-2.

It was a quarter which was marked mainly by Plymouth's loss of 6-8 Jim Ellinghausen for the rest of the game with a slight ankle sprain and by the normally accurate Agardy missing four chances in a row from the foul line.

Agardy obviously was mentally shaken from a pre-game incident in which he accidentally knocked out teammate Rick Gladstone, a 6-2 junior, in a collision under the basket. Gladstone required brief hospitalization but he and Ellinghausen both are expected to be ready for the Bentley game — in the first encounter with the Bulldogs, Ellinghausen was good for 22 points.

Trenton's best quarter was the second in which the Trojans got 16 points to Plymouth's 18, but the Rocks ran their lead to 51-26 in the third period and it was 56-27 with about six minutes left when Rock Coach Fred Thomann turned the game over to his reserves.

Bill DenHouter, subbing for Ellinghausen, also was in double scoring figures with 10 points to match Capt. Dan Moore, and the 6-7 DenHouter also led the Rocks in rebounds.

The Plymouth reserve unit of Mark Gothard, Howard Inch, Bob Evans, John Maloney and Mike Primeau tickled the fans as much as anything as they outscored Trenton in the stretch, 16-13, with everyone of them putting it in the hoop.

East wins, 66-58

By JIM BRADLEY

A Garden City East forward is fast becoming a typesetter's nightmare and a basketball coach's dream.

He's hard to spell and equally hard to stop on the basketball court.

Who is it? None other than Ken Tomaszewski, a smooth 6-foot-4 Panther, who led Billy Joe Young's team to its fourth consecutive win, a convincing 66-58 drubbing of Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Tomaszewski, who rode the bench until Christmas vacation, paced the Panthers with 21 points and 18 rebounds, the fifth time in six games he's scored in double figures.

THE PANTHERS, getting 16 points and 13 rebounds from Greg Emory and nine markers and 10 caroms from Jim Riley, led at the quarters, 23-9, 43-29 and 60-37 before sending in the subs. But the visiting Cougars, now 5-8 on the year, helped the host Panthers by hitting only 19 of 76 shots for 25 per cent while East managed 31 of 78 for 40 per cent.

Pat Teschendorf, Annapolis' hustling 6-foot-5 center, muscled his way to a game high 22 points, getting eight in the second period and 10 in the final stanza. Randy Dolney was his only teammate in double figures as he pumped in five field goals, mostly on rebounded shots.

North Farmington invades East Friday night in a Northwest Suburban game which Young says will "be a tough, tough game" for his second-place Panthers who are 5-1 in league play and 7-5 overall.

St. Andrew rips Aggies

Jim George's St. Agatha cagers plunged another notch deeper into the cavity of frustration.

St. Andrew of Detroit obliterated the Aggies in a Catholic Second Division West contest, 76-43.

It was the 10th straight defeat for St. Agatha since batting down Immaculate Conception on Dec. 17 in its solo win.

"We ran into a real buzz saw," commented George whose 1-14 Aggies have off until next Tuesday (Feb. 4) when they travel to Immaculate Conception.

St. Agatha, headed by Greg Sipus' 21 points, wound up 18 of 49 from the field for a 37 per cent. St. Andrew connected on 29 of 48 for 61 per cent.

Flint Central muzzles Bentley bite, 80-61

Larry Jackson's Bentley Bulldogs got a taste of Saginaw Valley basketball. And the Bulldogs would have done better off staying at home.chewing on a dog bone.

Flint Central all but ran circles around Bentley in an 80-61 conquest.

"It was a different world of basketball up there," commented Jackson.

"But it will be a different story tomorrow night at Plymouth Salem," added the Bentley coach whose 7-7 squad meets Fred Thomann's Rocks in round two of the Suburban Eight.

It was Bentley that handed Salem its only setback on Dec. 10, 79-78.

"We are looking forward to playing Salem again.

"There are three things we have to overcome. First we will be up against that Plymouth home crowd. Then there is the matter of emotion that will be sure to be in the Salem team in the appearance of revenge and finally there is the size factor.

"We took care of that size factor before and it got us a victory. I really think we can beat them again and in some respects, we are a better team than the first we played them.

"Our kids will be out to prove that the first time around wasn't an upset."

Brighton tops Clarenceville

"Sure we got beat by 18 points, but it just wasn't the case of us being beat by a better club," exclaimed Clarenceville High basketball Coach Bob Wolf after his Trojans stumbled to a 69-51 defeat.

"To put it very bluntly...it is very difficult to beat seven people all on the court at once. Sure I don't like to lose, and I also don't like to give away."

Brighton got off to a 14-10 first quarter lead and exploded in the second quarter to a 38-15 margin and the rest was a mere formality.

Clarenceville finished 18 of 54 from the field for a 33 per cent and Brighton hit on 19 of 30 for 63 per cent. The difference was at the charity line where Clarenceville made good only 15 of 21.

Brighton meanwhile popped in 31 of 39.

Thurston bumps Borgess, 71-52

Bishop Borgess made it two straight.

"Hold on there" you say, "Borgess basketball hasn't had anything straight this 1974-75 season."

Well, Borgess did make it two straight. Two straight 19 point losses into a now 0-14 campaign.

It was Thurston, 71-52, over Borgess and for Bill Croteau's Redford Township club, victory No. 5 against nine setbacks.

"The kids simply did a super job," commented Croteau whose Eagle team hosts Oak Park tomorrow (Friday) in a Northwest Suburban loop outing.

Croteau had to especially pleased with the performance of 6-foot-2 sophomore forward Dave Beebe. In his first varsity start, the Eagle 10th grader pumped in six points in the second quarter and 15 overall.

Thurston led by only one after one quarter, 9-8, but opened things up in the second, 31-11, to carry a 40-19 margin into the locker room at the half.

Dave Polodori collected 12 points and Gary Bireta added nine in a second quarter 31 point outburst by Thurston.

Thurston shot 27 of 57 from the floor for a 47 per cent and Borgess, 19 of 54 for 35 per cent. Box score:

Turf Tips, Quips

By DOC MINARD

Figure you're going to have a dull Saturday afternoon this week with football finally out of the way and you're not particularly interested in basketball, good or bad?

Well, you can get rid of that dead feeling by going to Northville Downs where the first of a series of harness racing matinees will be staged by Executive Director John Carlo and Racing Secretary Harry Peterson.

Granted you won't see any Spanish Macs or Bret Hanovers in the field but Peterson is arranging six races starting at 2 p.m. for Michigan owned and bred and promises a full afternoon of thrills.

Of course, there won't be any betting, not even a handbook will be in sight, but on the other hand there isn't any admission charge. It will be plenty of action with the heated grandstand open...just get there early, pick a good seat and bring your own peanuts and popcorn.

"We found we had a great many Michigan owned and bred horses that weren't getting starts," said Carlo. "So we decided to stage six races on Saturday afternoons to give these owners and trainers a chance to pick up some 'eating' money.

"At the moment we have plans for two Saturdays but may extend it longer if there is an interest on the part of the public and the horsemen. Just to make the afternoon complete, we will present a number of qualifying races so folks will have action from 2 p.m. until early evening when we have to start cleaning up for the night program."

Carlo and Peterson have received numerous complaints from horsemen about inability to get starts for their pacers and trotters, some didn't get to the races in three or four weeks.

They decided to work it out by holding the matinees for Michigan owned and bred and thus give owners of horses in the $2,000, $2,500 and $3,000 claiming paces and trots a chance.

NEGOTIATIONS are under way between the management of the Detroit Race Course and the mutuel clerks union although most of the time in the first couple of sessions was devoted to sparring.

But harder blows are expected to be struck when the teams meet again next week and begin hard bargaining. The 1975 Michigan thoroughbred season is scheduled to open on Feb. 21 and right now one hears of wagers being made that the runners won't open on time.

The reason? Dick Wilson, vice president and general manager of the Detroit Racing Association which conducts the opening meeting at the DRC, has been told by his board not to start operations without a contract.

Wilson made this known to the media and knowing Wilson we're certain he will stick by his guns unless the board orders him to do otherwise...we don't think they will.

All of which means both negotiating teams will have to buckle down and get into firm negotiating immediately. There just isn't any time for playing games.

The bargaining will be particularly tough this time since there is the matter of Sunday racing to consider in addition to the usual six-day week. It will be remembered that the DRA had a holdover contract last year which did not include Sunday programs and when the union demanded double time it was rejected and no Sabbath racing was held at the Detroit Race Course.

In its negotiations last year with Hazel Park, the union made it clear it wanted a six-day week with time and a half on the sixth day and double time on a seventh is there was to be Sunday racing.

This is a bit different from the situation in Toronto where the track operates five days weekly, including Sunday, is dark Mondays and Tuesdays and considers it a five-day week. In other words there is no overtime for Saturday or Sunday racing in the Toronto area.

It will be interesting to see what develops in the next two weeks since it appears considerable progress will have to be made by Feb. 15 or forget about starting on Feb. 21.

There's one thing for sure. The Canadian tracks have a tremendous edge over those in Michigan in their operation. In the Toronto area the government pays for the officials, security police, auditors, the personnel handling the "spit box" and numerous other posts that must be paid here by the tracks.

In Michigan, the track pays for the plant protection, is billed for payment of the state steward, the state auditors and others to the tune of around $500 per day. This is over and above the state's share of the mutuel handle.

Bloomfield butchers Stevenson, 68-49

West Bloomfield High basketball team played percentages last Tuesday night and won.

Livonia Stevenson outshot the Lakers 42-18 in the final half, but shooting efficiency told the story as West Bloomfield won a 68-49 decision.

"They didn't have that many shots in the third and fourth quarter but they made most of them which counted," said Stevenson coach George VanWagoner.

Laker assistant coach Ken Smith called the meeting a "very physical game."

"IT REALLY got pretty emotional out there," Smith said.

The referees called 28 fouls on the Lakers and 26 on Stevenson.

West Bloomfield jumped off to a healtly 37-22 lead at halftime an outscored the visitors in each quarter.

"We played a good man to man defense," Smith said, "and we mixed in a little zone defense with it."

Craig Hartle led all scorers with 20 points followed by Rick McGowan with 19. Dave Haberman sank 12 points and he represented the only Stevenson player to break into double figures.

"They played a good game and deserved to win," said VanWagoner. "We did not play that well."

West Bloomfield, currently 12-2 overall, will play at Milford this Friday night. Stevenson, 10-5, takes on Pontiac Northern tomorrow night, at home.

The Laker reserves strolled past Stevenson 49-35. Kevin Kowalski led the winners with 17 points.

Dearborn bounces Franklin, 62-53

Franklin's inexperience on the basketball court came to light and thus bounced out defeat No. 10.

Dearborn High outscored Bob Visser's Patriots 19-8, in the final eight minutes to topple Franklin, 62-53.

"We played some of our best basketball this season but lost it all through inexperience," commented Visser.

"We are on the threshold of a good basketball game," he added.

A 2-10 Franklin team plays host to highly touted Westland John Glenn tomorrow (Friday) and Visser's hopes for an upset were far from being singed.

"I know Glenn is not looking forward to playing us tomorrow," commented the Patriot head mentor."Be are ready for them, 13-1 record or no 13-1 record.

"Don't be surprised with a Franklin victory."

In the Dearborn contest, the Pioneers exploded to a 23-10 first quarter lead but found themselves down at the half, 31-29.

Jo Jo Scarpace popped in six buckets for Franklin in the second quarter and that coupled with nine Patriot steals put Dearborn behind, 16 minutes remaining.

The Patriots held on to the lead after three quarters, 45-43, and with three minutes showing on the clock, Rich Gibson pumped in a 10 footer to give Franklin a 53-51 lead.

But that is where the Patriot machine ran out of steam and Dearborn reeled off 11 straight points. Jim Vanderhull made good two from the charity line, Rich Haller popped in a field goal and Vanderhull pumped in two two-pointers.

Franklin wound up 23 of 51 from the field for a 45 shooting per cent, Scarpace was high man with 18 points. Dearborn connected on 22 of 56 for 39 per cent but took it all at the charity line with an 18 for 23 showing. Box score:

Saline slays Canton, 85-66

In what is becoming almost an everyday happening around Plymouth Canton High School, cage coach Casey Cavell was again caught shaking his head in frustration and disbelief.

"We simply cannot play a full 32 minutes of basketball," commented Cavell after his Canton Chiefs fell to Saline, 85-66.

Saline jumped off to a 24-17 first quarter lead but Canton sliced it to 43-38 at the half.

"That's just about when we lost it all," added the Canton coach. "We lost momentum and simply ran out of steam."

It was Canton's third consecutive defeat in a 6-8 season.

Saline took the third quarter, 19-13, and the last eight minutes, 23-15.

Canton got off an amazing 92 shots but only 28 fell through the hoop for 30 per cent. Saline on the other hand, connected on 32 of 64 for 50 per cent.

The Chiefs travel to Waterford Mott tomorrow (Friday) and host Woodhaven on Tuesday, Feb. 4. Box score:

The phenomenal rise of women's bowling has brought about an unusual problem across the entire tenpin front.

While their ranks have been welcomed, the women have caused a change in league bowling and that is where the trouble lies.

Until the women's interest increased, most league competition consisted of five-man teams. That meant 15 lines were bowled on each lane during the league time.

With the advent of women, they wanted to bowl with the men and it has reached the point now where more than 50 per cent of the leagues in the metropolitan area are mixed circuits--tow men and two women.

This means that the mixed league produces only 12 lines on each lane and consumes approximately the same amount of time.

It has become a dollar and cents problem. To meet it, the Bowling Proprietors Association of America is taking a unique course. It is opening a campaign across the land to help boost the membership in fraternal organizations such as the Moose and Elks, along with the Masons, in the hope of returning them to five-man competition.

MIKE SAMARDZIJA, the former Stroh star, set a blistering pace in the qualifying rounds of the annual Masters Tournament sponsored by the Greater Detroit Bowling Association over the past weekend at Belman Lanes.

He put together series of 940 and 880 for 1820 to gain a 29 pin edge on Bob Briarton, the veteran who had series of 918 and 873 for 1971. Bob, in turn, had only a nine pin margin over Jack Trealor

The defending champion, Dick Beattie, will be battling a jinx this weekend as no one ever has successfully defended the title.

BILL WALKER is cutting a wide swath in the Bel-Aire Lanes Classic.

This week he came through with a 765 series on games of 268, 229 and 268. It was the third week in a row that he has broken the 700 barrier.

Bill had company in the select circle when Bob Boss posted a 705. Other high scores included Larry Cardinas with 692 and Joe Foster with 680.

In contrast, none of the sharpshooters broke the 700 barrier at Westland Bowl where Les Crawford took top honors with a 687 that included a finishing game of 257. Right behind him came Frank Ashcraft with 684 and Hal Jolley with 666.

Hal was headed for a big series when he opened with a 255 and followed with 248. Then his hopes faded as he dropped to a 165 in the final.

IT SEEMED LIKE 600 or no count in the regular leagues at Bel-Aire.

Norb Strutzel topped the Senior House league with 660, Bill Moran followed with 643. Behind this pair came Gil Scharnhorst with 636 and Zig Margosian with 635.

It was much the same in the Businessmen's League. John Farley showed the way with 652 and was followed by Ken Marsh with 650 and Joe Gresser with 637.

In the Thursday Mixed League, Jack Dahlstrom set the pace when he posted a 642. Next in line came Ron Enders with 616 and John Lennon with 606. Evelyn Lennon was only six pins back with a 600 and Christ Stevenson had a 559.

TWO NEW NAMES popped up in the Friday Mixed Classic at Farmington Lanes when Denice O'Neill posted a 205 in 599 and Marty Eko had a 212 in 603.

In the Thursday Classic, Carl Jruger was top man with a 222 in 627.

THE GIRLS DID some fancy shooting in the Invitational Doubles at Merri-Bowl over the past weekend.

Jean Crockett and Virginia Lenk waged quite a battle before Jean won with games of 246, 201 and 222 for 669. Virginia was in the running with games of 226 and 245, but fell to 191 in the final and settled for a 662.

Billy Ott landed in third place 624 and was followed by Mary Mohacsi with 589, Pat Wilson with 586 and Sue Tadovich with 585.

PRIOR TO BOWLING in the doubles on Sunday, Mary Mohacsi took top honors in the Friday Classic at Garden Lanes with 597 to beat Gerry Beatty by 10 pins.

There was another great battle in the Moose League at Garden Lanes before Bill Culnow took the pacemaking role with a 666. Despite a 254 game, John Hockstadt had to settle for 658 and the runner-up position.

Two triplicates showed up in the week's firing.

The first came at Plaza Bowl when Sandy Henning, a 107 average bowler, turned in identical scores of 121. The other was at Mayflower Lanes when Mary West had her three 156 games.

Finally...tourney champs win a game; nip Lathrup

After losing to all three Livonia rivals since copping top honors in the Observer & Eecentric Gee hockey tourney, Mike Dudley's Bentley Bulldogs finally won a game.

But it was by far a turnabout into the season as the Bulldogs just did get by a winless Southfield Lathrup club, 7-6.

"I guess we tried to give another one away," commented Dudley whose Bentley team now stands at 4-3 in the Suburban loop.

Bob Kelly netted a three-goal hat trick for Lathrup and Stan Dilabbio and Mark Sabuda had two apiece for the Bulldogs. Box score:

So you're going to sell your house

Home&Garden

By MICHAEL D. SAMONEK
Executive Vice President
United Northwestern Realty Ass.

Many people are looking forward to moving into new houses sometime during the year. According to national statistics, about 20 per cent of our population—one household in every five—can be expected to change living quarters during an average year.

Most moves will involve the sale of the presently-occupied house. Naturally, everyone hopes for a rapid sale at a top price. Those contemplating a move in the near future would be wise to start now to get their house in sale condition.

HERE ARE SOME tips:

Clean steps and porches, freshly-painted if needed, shining windows and fresh-looking doors should welcome prospects. As spring approaches, pay special attention to the condition of the lawn and neatly trim shrubs and hedges.

Prospects are concerned with the extent and costs of redecorating, so a little fresh paint and fresh wallpaper can ease their fears while brightening walls and setting off rooms to their best advantage.

Minor repairs take minutes but can pay big dividends. Leaky faucets, stuck doors, loose knobs, cracked windows and other small items may suggest that the house has not been given proper care.

Every buyer is interested in ample closet and storage space, so discard unneeded articles and arrange these areas neatly to show them at their best.

An attractive bathroom can be a sales clincher, so make sure yours is in perfect order with all plumbing working properly, bathtubs and showers well-caulked and all tile and brightwork securely in place.

BEDROOMS ARE prime selling features and size is always important. Prepare yours to show their full potential by removing excess furniture and arranging the remainder to accent available space. Attractive spreads and fresh curtains will serve as highlights.

Freshly shampooed carpets and newly-waxed tile and hardwood floors will stand out as shining examples of the well-kept house so plan to do this when the house goes on the market.

The exterior makes the first impression so assure that it will be a favorable one. Eavetroughs should be clean and in good repair. Trim should be freshly painted or washed. No loose brick, stone or stucco should be evident and wood, asphalt and aluminum siding should be properly affixed.

Pay special attention to the roof because no prospective buyer likes a house that may need major and expensive repairs. Examine the roof closely and repair any areas that have or may cause leaks including any areas that could be damaged by strong winds.

Perhaps the most important point of all is to put yourself in the buyer's position and try to assure that everything about the house would meet with your approval if your roles were reversed.

...Smells good, too

By ELINOR GRAHAM

Getting a house in shape to be shown to prospective buyers can be a major task, but the really traumatic chore is keeping it shipshape over a prolonged period of time.

Children can seem very uncooperative during this phase even though the showings are by appointment only. With parents in a hyper "a place for everything and everything in its place" mood, home is not the relaxed place it used to be.

A friend, who has become used to a transient life because of her husband's frequent corporation moves, takes it all in her stride.

Her theory is that looks are not everything. You have to appeal to the prospect's sense of smell.

She claims there is nothing that puts a prospective buyer in a mellower mood than the tantalizing smell of freshly baked bread.

A loaf of bread in the oven is a fairly minor investment. Frozen loaves are about 20 cents each at the supermarket. Granted, you can't use the same loaf twice for olfactory purposes. But the thick warm silces, dripping with melting butter, are a soothing reward for "persecuted" youngsters.

(Eaten on a paper napkin of course and "be careful of those crumbs.")

The homey whiff of baking bread may not blind the prospect to leaky faucets and dog scratches on the back door, but it's worth a try.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

With a world-wide food shortage looking us in the eye, it's good to know that a few public schools are sensible enough to teach students something about growing plants.

Peter J. Wotowiec, supervisor of the horticulture department, Cleveland Public Schools passes along some interesting facts other schools should look into.

Over 21,000 gardeners in the Cleveland schools' youth garden program have completed their reports for the 1974 season:

Production of vegetables alone by the students amounted to over $622,000.

The Cleveland school garden program, originated in 1904, includes tracts located throughout the city where young people maintain individual garden plots. Total space devoted to tract gardens exceeds 35 acres. Those who did not wish to participate in the tract program had the option to maintain their "green thumbs" by enrolling for a home garden.

ALTHOUGH the value of vegetables produced by the students was over $622,211, we feel that the educational value of gardening is just as important. Gardening remains a field laboratory for pupil development in the areas of environmental sciences, practical mathematics, and just about every other area taught in schools.

There isn't a subject in high school (or elementary grades) which cannot be taught, based on gardening or nature study. In good times and bad, our total environment continues to be our most cherished resource, and our whole society is committed to preserving and protecting our environment.

We can do this and at the same time, learn to grow much of our own food.

IF YOU WANT to try some dandy new apples, plant the following:

(1) Empire, a wonderful McIntosh type, introduced by the Geneva, N.Y. experimental station. A fine dessert apple that keeps longer in the refrigerator than the McIntosh. Skin is solid red and covered with a heavy waxy coating (called "bloom"). Tree ripens two weeks later than McIntosh.

(2) Idared, cross between Jonathan and Wagener, has bright red skin and solid flesh. Good keeper. Tart at time of harvest, but it mellows later. Trees bear young and heavy. Originated at Idaho experimental station.

(3) Jonamac, a cross between Jonathan and McIntosh. Has more red color than the McIntosh, and quality is better.

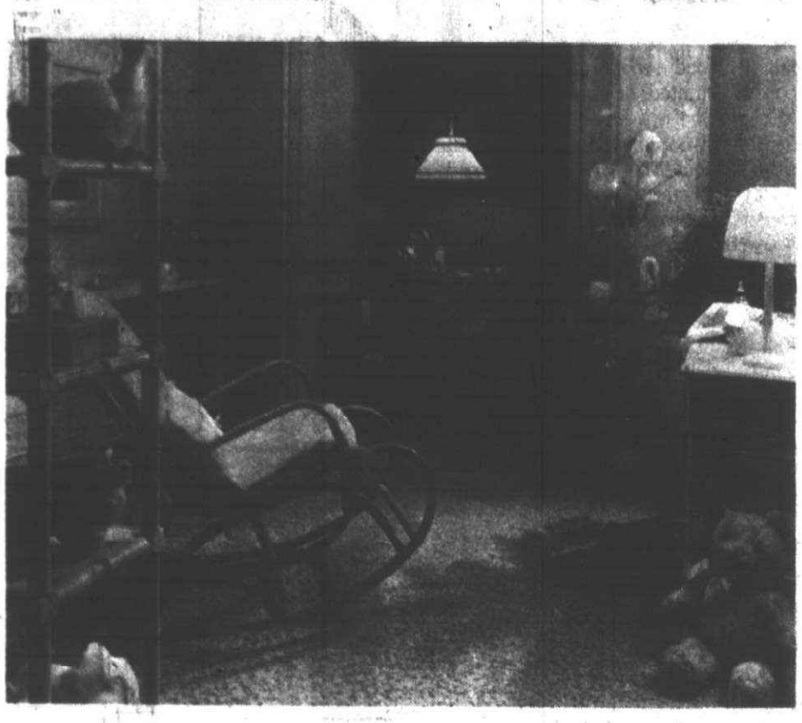
Bedroom grows from bassinet to full-bed size



CLOSET BABY is a happy baby, especially when its parents have made this area into a charming "alcove" from where there is a natural graduation into the larger room.

A pair of children's rooms has been created by Armstrong designer Louisa Cowan. Each has the adaptability to accommodate a growing youngster, comfort, adequate storage space and decorating ideas anyone can duplicate with very little know-how.

By painting an over-sized closet a warm golden color (deeper than the rest of the room) a cozy, intimate nursery was born.

The bed is made of two bamboo occasional chairs tied together with ribbon and lined with a comfortable mattress. The changing table is a desk which also can be used later on.

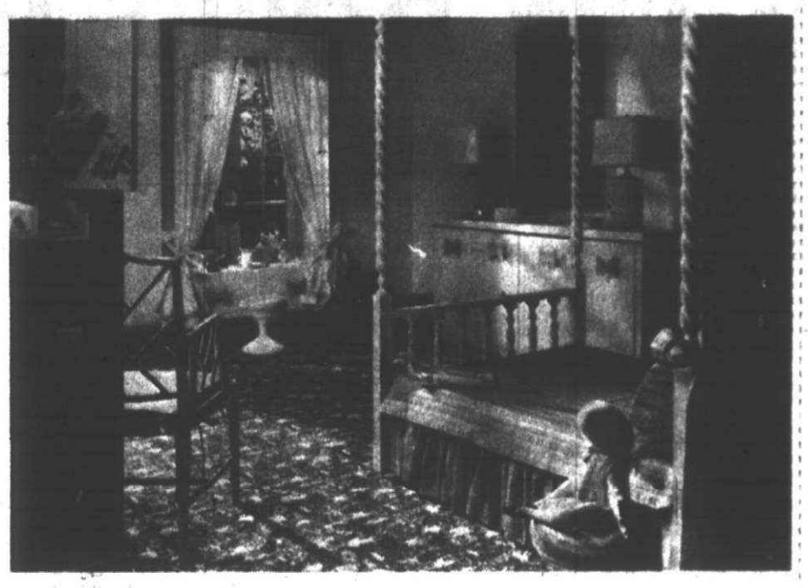
Parents can coddle their baby in a room of its own, and the infant can make a natural transition into the larger area in a short time.

THE FOUR-POSTER room is a great do-it-yourself project. The curtains are white sheets trimmed with pink and white polka-dot seersucker. This same material was used for the dust ruffle, bedspread, and backdrop that is shirred and hung on a spring rod at the back of the headboard. The bed was made of banister turnings bought for railings at any building supply house.

Both the hanging and floor storage chests, and the chair, are unfinished furniture painted white. Knobs are decorated with jigsawed wooden bows attached to a one-inch cube and screwed into place. Later these can be replaced with more sophisticated porcelain knobs.

Because the designer found frogs appeal to little girls, she used frog puppets on the window seat and a frog motif on the mirror. There is even a frog toy bin.

Both rooms feature accoustical tile ceilings and are a cinch to reproduce.



REAL LIVE princess has a do-it-yourself four poster room. The colorful vinyl floor pattern is called "Little Critters" and was designed especially for children's rooms by Armstrong.

Laurentians offer it all

Gray Rocks Inn -- No.1 ski school resort

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

After years of being a "rocking chair skier"— the time was now to see how the real skier lives, in his conquest of slope and snow.

And to take on this challenge of actually putting on a pair of ski boots and even a set of skis...it was off to the Laurentian Mountains in Quebec, Canada.

A flight to Montreal was first in order, followed by a 74-mile drive up the Autoroute.

At the conclusion of mile 74, I found myself at the front door of a cozy, recreational resort accommodating 450.

I was about to embark upon a ski week at Biff and Tom Wheeler's Gray Rocks Inn located in the St. Jovite area, under the watchful eye of Real Charette's Snow Eagle Ski School.

The Snow Eagles have 40 fulltime instructors, all certified by the Canadian Ski Instructors Alliance. With this number on the payroll, the classes usually range from eight to 12 students per instructor.

The ski week begins with a Sunday evening movie and introduction period, and then it's quickly into hour one Monday morning.

First there was getting use to standing on skis and learning how and how not to fall.

Next came the grading of skiers (and I use that word loosely at the this stage) into classes of ability. I was right at rock bottom, class 36 I believe.

Everyone is assigned to a class and can progress or be set back accordingly.

The Snow Eagles use the short ski progression method of teaching during sessions from 10 a.m. to noon and from 2-4 p.m.

My opening conquest was a slope of not more than two- or three- feet. Then came the magic of the snowplow.

Day one ended with a great sense of accomplishment — I had not fallen and had mastered the art of snowplowing.

Day two, Tuesday, opened with me progressing up a class, under the eyes of Chris Lloyd. It was right into paralleling and then came the infamous T-bar.

My first adventure with the T-bar had me clinging to the pole and monkey hang for dear life. The skis didn't do what I had hoped for them...they crossed, and I and my partner, a young lass from Buffalo, N.Y., went tumbling down the mountain.

Attempt number four mastered the T-bar and parallel turning rounded out the day's chores.

Day three was my final push, and first year instructor Randy Banks from North Carolina got the call, class 31.

I was starting to enjoy skiing and still had not fallen. Just before the lunch break, our class ventured forth to a steeper slope, one I had cast dirty looks at before.

And needless to say, wipe-out number one was performed in graceful style.

A parallel turn that was supposed to be wasn't and over I went... skis in the air down the slope on my back some 500 feet. Arriving to a standing ovation from my class, I noticed that everyone laughs with you, not at you.

Day four and five, Thursday and Friday, it was work on paralleling and parallel turns and onto the chair lift. Saturday morning is race time and the 30 some odd classes are broken down into three divisions.

It was ski around the flag time and a second place in the novice earned a silver pin.

TAKING THE TURNS through the flags on race day is Sports Editor Tom Donoghue.

MAKING IT A COMPLETE HAUL on the practice run before the races

If you are looking for that special teaching method with special effects, Gray Rocks isn't the place. Attitude and friendship is the key and Quebec's first resort had it all to offer.

At Gray Rocks, a various assortment of colorful ski outfits and the latest of all equipment is not expected and not really looked for.

There doesn't seem to be the pretense of trying to impress everyone on the Gray Rocks slopes.

There are no great challenging slopes or heart stopping descents.What there is, is down to earth honest instruction and an intense week of good old fashioned fun.

There are sleigh bell rides and hot wine parties for the classes after ski hours and an all-around general atmosphere that has made the Snow Eagle school and Gray Rocks the "Dean of the Laurentians."

The ski season at Gray Rocks goes from Nov. 20 to the beginning of May. Average snow is 165 inches with base around the 48 inch mark to 12 feet in spots.

There are five novice, six intermediate and seven expert runs with the longest run - one mile.

Gray Rocks has two double chair lifts and two T-bars with uphill capacity at 4,300 per hour. Everything that you would possiblity want and need can be rented.

Bonstelle production lacks sensitivity

By MARILYN FITCHETT

A mental institution is probably the last place you'd look for peace and tranquility. But you probably wouldn't expect the likes of the Bowery Boys to take refuge there, either.

But that seems to be the case in the Bonstelle Theatre production of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

Perhaps it's that Dale Wasserman's adaptation doesn't do justice to the Ken Kesey novel of the same name or that director Robert Hazzard doesn't perceive mental patients drugged into submission as a serious issue. But it was hard to tell if the actors were representing some of the saddest elements of society or instead were attending a casting session for the Three Stooges.

NO DOUBT Kesey intended a good bit of humor as he spun his tale, but instead of seeing a conflict between mental patients and a head nurse who would rather dominate than cure her patients, we have a group of raucous schoolboys trying to intimidate a substitute teacher.

Instead of portraying tragedy with a blend of humor, Hazzard prefers to slapstick silliness which just so happens to be tragic at the end.

Instead of a stern medical staff subduing their patients with tranquilizers, we have a bumbling staff, save the head nurse, and a group of patients who rally around prisoner feigning mental illness and become a ward of buffoons, not mentally afflicted.

PRIOR TO the arrival of R.P. McMurphy, played by Jim Siatkowski of Farmington Hills, the patients follow a pattern of taking their morning tranquilizers and doing whatever the head nurse tells them, convinced that she is on an errand of mercy and has their welfare foremost in her mind.

McMurphy sees the patients as gutless and sets out to destroy the control of head nurse Miss Ratched, played by Crystal Premo of Livonia.

Siatkowski lives up to his role as the wheeler-dealer who cons the patients out of their money and out of their lethargy. He believes he has them turned against Miss Ratchett until she imposes her authority and turns them repeatedly into jelly.

AS NURSE Ratched, Miss Premo isn't quite the domineering force she needs to be, and who can blame her when she is in charge not of the disturbed but of a group of clowns? If she delivers a weak performance, it's because she has no other choice.

The only indication of the tragedy going on in the hospital is in asides delivered by Chief Bromden, played by Garden City's Tom Kjellberg. Although able to hear and speak to his dead father, he is thought to be deaf and mute by hospital officials. It is through his narrations that we feel the pain the inmate must feel.

Kjellberg convincingly describes the "fog" which descends on the hospital when the staff wishes to torture its inmates with electric shock treatments. He also relays to the audience how he perceives the hospital to slow down and speed up time for the purpose of masking reality from the inmates.

DESPITE ALL of McMurphy's conning, he does have a clear idea of what the hospital stands for. He is the first to discover that the Chief is not deaf and wins him over with his gifts of gum and his ability to stand up to head nurse.

Even though the Bonstelle production would like to have us think of "One Flew" as a comedy, it has to deal with the tragic finale. From a scene of a wild party in which patients mix up drinks in a hot water bag, we are plunged into the close where we view the suicide of a weak patient, a lobotomy performed on McMurphy, his murder performed by the Chief and the Chief's escape.

No doubt there's humor to be found at all levels of life. And no doubt there are mental institution staff members who are inept at their jobs and uncaring for their patients. But it doesn't add up to one big laugh as the Bonstelle production seems to make it.

Theater picks prize-winning cast

The Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford is currently in rehearsal for "Death of a Salesman," a play by Arthur Miller which received the Pulitzer Prize and the Drama Critics Award in 1948-49.

Howard Egan, who plays Willy Loman, was chosen best actor by the Detroit-Windsor Theater Council for his performance in the Guild's 1961 production of "Dark at the Top of the Stairs." Egan also appeared in the Guild's productions of "The Lion in Winter" and "I Never Sang for My Father." "Lion" was chosen best production in 1972. At the same festival, Louise Martin, who is playing Linda, Willy's wife, was selected best actress for her performance as Mary Todd Lincoln in "The Thin Line," an original play presented by the Players Guild of Dearborn. Louise, who lives in Brimingham, also appeared in "I Never Sang for My Father."

Mary Ann Brownlee Vosgerschian, of Livonia, set designer for "Salesman," directed "The Lion in Winter" and "I Never Sang for my Father," which received the award for best direction in 1973. Ms. Vosgerschian is presently employed by Project CAMEO in the Livonia School District.

Others in the cast are DeNeiges McCann of Livonia, Kevin McGee of Livonia, Susan Taranowsky of Westland and Marion Tournaud of Farmington. Also John Faitel of Farmington Hills, Patrick Kenney of Birmingham, Eva Wojnar of Royal Oak, Dennis Bumpus of Trenton, Charles Elliott of Flat Rock, Val Sisto of Taylor and Max Wolfe of Berkley.

Barbara Mullally of Plymouth is in charge of production and Ron Otulakowski is the director.

Performances are scheduled Feb. 14, 15, 21, 22, 28 and March 1 in the Guild playhous, 15138 Beech Daly, just south of Five Mile, in Redford Township. Seating is limited and reservations are suggested. For tickets or information call Mrs. Gregory Nelson, 30742 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland, or Mrs. C. Foster, 16772 Country Club Drive, Livonia.

Hilberry superb in Steinbeck drama

By KATHY MORAN

In the wrong hands, John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" could easily sink into melodrama. But Wayne State's Hilberry cast puts just the right touch on the play which deals in large doses of loneliness, emptiness and illusions.

Performed in the same, controlled way as Steinbeck wrote both the novel and play, "Of Mice and Men" tells of deep friendship and gripping loneliness; of two rootless men, one strong and the other weak, married to a dream.

The play, set in southern California, is a timeless story of two itinerant farm laborers and their dream of a farm of their own, land they can work and rabbits they can raise.

AL HAMACHER is superb in the demanding role of Lennie, the the mentally weak but physically strong one of the pair. His companion, George, is aptly played by Ralph Pochoda. Both delude themselves with their dream as they settle into another job on another farm, this one differing from others only in its impending tragedy.

One of the most intriguing performances is by James Kisicki as Candy, the aging laborer who has been rendered almost as useless as his toothless, arthritic dog through age and loss of his hand. Candy provides a glimpse of what George, Lennie and the others will be as he fumbles around, swamping the bunkhouse and grumbling about his life.

But it's Candy's money that inflames the three (George, Lennie and Candy) with the near realization of their dream farm. Ironically, it's Lennie's affection for softness that destroys them all. Seduced by the wife of the boss's son, Lennie panics while stroking her soft hair and breaks her neck while trying to muffle her screams.

Several scenes in the play deserve note, but particularly one where Curley's (the boss's son) wife and Lennie both stare in their own directions and hauntingly tell their own stories. George and Lennie have each other and the dream.

The play, which is suitable for all ages, will be performed again on Friday, Feb. 7, at 8:30 p.m. in the theater, Cass and Hancock.

Symphony program combines variety, quality

By SUE ROSIEK

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's family concert recently in Plymouth Salem High School was a 90-minute musical treat, with enough variety to entertain three generations.

The first portion of the program focused on musical trains. The orchestra, under the direction of Wayne Dunlap, played "Pleasure Train Polka" by Johann Strauss, a light, lively piece reminiscient of a chugging trolley. A sharp contrast to this airy polka was "Pacific 231," by Swiss composer Arthur Honneger, who named it after an American railway engine. The orchestra's strong performance gave an audible impression and simulated presence of a powerful, chargin locomotive.

RELYING ON local talent, the second segment of the show featured the East Middle School Chorus and the orchestra performing "Creatures and Colors" by Lee Eitzen.

The work was commissioned by the Plymouth Symphony and first performed in 1963. It is a collection of six children's poems set to Eitzen's music. The international poems capture the flavor of Ireland, Greece, Israel, America, India and Germany.

The chorus, made up of seventh and eighth graders, under the direction of William Grimmer, did a fine job despite the fact the flu-bug had depleted its ranks and consequently some of its volume.

Although the verse was taken from a book of children's poetry, the music's appeal wasn't limited to youngsters. It was colorful, interesting and imaginative. As Dunlap aptly summarized it: "You don't have to be a child to enjoy a musical poem."

THE SHORTEST but most effective song both vocally and instrumentally was "The Panther," a short, funny, descriptive tale by Ogden Nash.

Eitzen is a former member of the Plymouth Symphony and his wife, Leslie, a former vocalist in the area. The Eitzens are presently on the music faculty of Grand Valley State Colleges, Allendale, where Dunlap is director of fine arts.

Before every number Dunlap explained the musical composition and gave a short explanation composition and gave a short explanation of the story behind the music. This being a family concert, youngsters made up a substantial portion of the audience, and Dunlap's brief introductions helped many to understand the music and add to their enjoyment.

THE OUTSTANDING selection of the program was the orchestra's impressive performance of Mussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition," orchestrated by Maurice Ravel.

Mussorgsky wrote the piece, a series of descriptive piano pieces linked by a magnificent promenade theme, as a tribute to his artist friend Victor Hartmann.

The symphony's rendition, under Dunlap's leadership, was superb and definitely the crowning portion of the program's story-telling theme.

UFO lecture at Schoolcraft

"Flying Saucers are Real" is the title of an illustrated lecture to be presented by nuclear physicist Stanton T. Friedman, Tuesday, Feb. 4 at 8 p.m. in the Upper Waterman Campus Center of Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia.

Friedman is the only space scientist in the county known to be spending full time on UFOs. He has lectured at 225 colleges in 40 states in the past three years. His background included 14 years experience in the development of advanced nuclear and space systems.

Serving as director of the UFO Research Institute of Redondo Beach, Calif., Friedman says, "After 15 years of stury and investigation I am convinced that the evidence is overwhelming that Earth is being visited by intelligently controlled vehicles whose origin is off the earth."

Friedman's talk will cover five large scale scientific studies of UFOs including infamous Condon Report.

Women teachers on move --to the bargaining table

By MARILYN FITCHETT

Is women's liberation or the fact that women have traditionally played a dominant role in the classroom the reason that local teacher unions are selecting more women to leadership positions and to bargaining teams?

Perhaps both.

Whatever the reason, women are apparently running more and sitting back less. Four local education associations— Livonia, Plymouth, Garden City and South Redford—are headed by women, and there was feminine participation at bargaining tables this year in Westland and Redford Union.

WOMEN PARTICIPATING in union activities range from "women libbers" to women who do not associate themselves with the women's movement. But there is a common bond: they all want to stand up and be heard on issues they think important as teachers.

A study in contrasts even exists in the same union as witnessed by Plymouth Education Association (PEA) president Dolly Carter and president-elect Candi Mair.

While Mrs. Carter maintains that her being a woman was of little significance in heading the union, Miss Mair claims there were noticeable differences.

"I'm not a woman chauvinist or a woman's libber," Mrs. Carter says. "I think that people now look at a person and her credibility and vote on that aspect. What it boils down to is the members' confidence in your ability to lead."

She also believes that her sex neither helped nor hindered her as a union head, although she says that, with one exception, being a woman protected her from attacks by the press.

ACCORDING to Mrs. Carter, involvement in the PEA was enough reason to enter union politics. Miss Mair said she headed that way because of new awareness brought on by the women's movement.

"Teaching goes beyond the four walls of a classroom,', Mrs. Carter said. "So much goes on from the outside. I felt I had something to say and wanted to be able to say it.

"When you become active in a union, there are obvious advantages; you get to speak to the people directly involved in decision making."

She also believes that it just "human nature" for women to be so active in the PEA.

"The majority of teachers are women," she added. "In the elementary grades probably 90 to 95 per cent of the teachers are women.

"I would encourage anyone, not just women, to become involved in the PEA. So much is always going on. Decisions are made daily that teachers have no say in—such things as items approved at board of education meetings and the way the administration sets curriculum policy."

IF MRS. CARTER notices a difference in union activities as a result of her sex, it's at the bargaining table.

"I think that when there's a woman present at the negotiating table, there's a different mood and a different tone.

"Neither side gets into name-calling or mud-slinging that might go on in the company of all men," she said.

Mrs. Carter's successor, Miss Mair, is more convinced that women's attitudes are changing and that both men and women want "to elect the best person for a job and not just the best man."

"It used to be that women felt they were second-class citizens and understood that a union office was a man's position," she said.

"With the so-called liberation movement, women are freer and more willing to stick their necks out on the line in an election. Before, women simply wouldn't elect another woman."

BARBARA SOWERS, who heads the Livonia Education Association (LEA), cites four other women LEA presidents and says active women are particular to the teaching profession.

The LEA has always had a lot of women active," Miss Sowers said. "I became active because I felt it was the only way to help an organization.

"I don't think it matters whether a woman is at the head of the union. We're a team and it's a team effort working for the best optimum contract for all teachers.

"We're all educators; I haven't noticed a difference in male and female roles.

"Education is a vocation and the interested look at it as such. Women just haven't had any reason to kick up their heels."

IN SOUTH REDFORD, the union leader is Lynn Golonka, mother of three. Mrs. Golonka is quick to credit her husband for keeping things running on the home front so she can tend to union activities.

"At first I was a housewife and mother," Mrs. Golonka said. "Then I began teaching and then I became active in the union.

"People told me my children were going to be destroyed if I left home but I didn't feel that way."

Mrs. Golonka's own union activism developed because she says she "was philosophically opposed to the previous leadership."

"And I wanted to increase the strength of teacher awareness and participation."

Since South Redford still does not have a contract, much of her time is being spent these days at the negotiating table. She also plans to run for reelection in February and feels that perhaps because she is a woman she is attracting other women into union politics.

But she is wary of that role.

"I have noticed more involvement by women, and I can speculate that indirectly my being president attracts other women," she says.

"But you know, there are very few role models for us to follow. Even today there is no predominant woman historical figure that snaps into everybody's mind.

"I guess I'm creating new ground and I try to offer all the encouragement for women to become involved as I can."

IN REDFORD UNION, it was a woman who picked up the negotiating slack this fall when state Michigan Education Association negotiators went on strike against their own union.

Cindy Mattingly served for some two months as her union's negotiator. She is now on a sabbatical leave from both her teaching and union activities.

LYNN CARLISLE was the only woman represented on either bargaining team in the Wayne-Westland negotiations. She says she joined the Wayne—Westland Education Association's team so a woman's voice might be heard.

"I think the general level of involvement on the part of union members has increased," Miss Carlisle says. "It's become apparent that if teachers don't stand up for their rights that no one else will.

"I think the women's movement has something to do with women's changing attitude.

"You see a lot of women in teaching now who have families. Before, a woman left teaching for good when she started a family. More women now are looking at teaching as their profession and their life's work."

With four male negotiators on her team, Miss Carlisle said she felt "different" being the only woman at the negotiating tables.

"A lot of the times it wasn't the issues on which we disagreed but the attitudes," she says. "For instance, they'd think in terms of chairman, while I would think of it as chairperson.

"It wasn't until I opened my mouth and gave my viewpoint on issues that they realized I had a brain."

In addition to the issues concerning elementary education teachers, Miss Carlisle espoused maternity and paternity issues.

The WWEA fought for and received a one-year paternity leave for new fathers. Expectant mothers in the district no longer have to take a long term maternity leave; they may use sick days to have the child and may return to work just after the birth.

PERHAPS THE HOTTEST seat in the area belongs to Ann Riley who took over the presidency of the Garden City Education Association (GCEA) after the union removed Paul Chamberlain from office during the long teacher strike there. But whatever pressures she might be feeling, she's adamant that they aren't because of her sex.

"I have felt no prejudices whatever," Ms. Riley said. "I think people see me as a person and not as a male or a female. At least I hope so.

"I regard myself as being very liberated. I'm a feminist and I've felt that way a long time. The stereotypes are changing and I'll be trying to make things bette: for teachers, not just women, although women will be involved."

One issue she will have to tackle is the fight for equal pay for female coaches.

"That's an issue not just women are interested in," she insisted. "The male coaches think the women are getting a raw deal too. We'll be fighting for that for a long time."

ALTHOUGH SHE has been active in the GCEA for six years, she believes it was this year that most teachers became aware of the struggles still facing them.

"The teachers' eyes have been opened; they realize they need each other and they will have to fight for their rights and fight to get rid of the board's paternalistic attitude," she declared.

Ms. Riley said she will seek re-election in May because there is still much to be done.

"Basically I want to get people involved in working on committees, she added. "Teachers have to become more aware of the problems and the inconsistencies which are in the district.

"We have a lot of talent but we have to make better use of that talent. We need to get people working on public relations and working to promote better legislation."

TWO WOMEN, Zita Shipman and Ronni Parrington, sat at the GCEA negotiating table. While the two noticed differences because of their presence at negotiating sessions, neither felt there was blatant discrimination.

Mrs. Shipman believes that as long as women have a vote in union affairs, they will always be interested. She also notes that in the lower grades women take up leadership positions because of the absence of male teachers.

"I think our members feel that women can do as good a job as a man, if not better," she said.

"I don't think women's participation is a women 's lib kind of thing; it's more an emergence of people digging in and becoming involved with grievance issues and the union on the whole." Mrs. Parrington contended teaching issues are at the base of union activism.

"People are realizing now that teaching is more than just classroom activities," Mrs. Parrington says. "Problems have existed that never came to the floor of union meetings. People are beginning to say, 'Hey, that's affecting me too.'

"For instance, I've been teaching fourth grade for seven years. Since then the district's enrollments have been falling but my classes keep getting bigger."

SHE BELIEVES there was a definte change at the bargaining tables because of the presence of herself and Mrs. Shipman.

"At first the atmosphere at the negotiating sessions was very mannerly. But at the end, it didn't matter because things were so tense. But I would say the men tried to keep the swearing down to a minimum. Not that swearing burns our ears.

"At our own meetings, before the actual sessions, everyone was to have study areas drawn up. When it came for discussion John Melchor (chief negotiator) asked which of us women was going to be the secretary.

"We insisted that we all take turns with the note-taking, and after they realized we weren't going to fall into the typical women's role, we got along very well. The men took notes and even typed them up for the next meetings.

"The guys were not terribly chauvinistic about anything. We kid a lot about it but when it came to us presenting our issues, the men took our words as elementary teachers and not as women."

While the Leonard Woodcocks and George Meanys will no doubt be around for quite some time, there is probably still more to be heard from the Myra Wolfgangs, Dolly Carters and Ann Rileys.

Golf clinic begins at YW

The YWCA of Western Wayne County will try to chase winter boredom by sponsoring an indoor golf clinic Thursdays and Fridays starting Feb. 6.

Individual instruction will be stressed by golf pro Tony DiPaole, who has worked 10 years for the Dearborn Country Club and has been instructing indoor golf for three years.

The cost is $12, which includes four golf sessions and Y membership. Practice clubs are furnished. For further information contact the YWCA, 26279 Michigan, Inkster.

New Livonia Lamaze group starts classes

The newly-organized Lamaze Childbirth Education Association of Livonia will begin classes in the Lamaze method of childbirth in St. Mary Hospital Feb. 6.

The 7 to 9 p.m. classes for expectant parents are the first scheduled by the Livonia organization. Other series will begin March 4 and March 27.

Parents interested may call the president, Mrs. Kenneth L. Baker, 14433 Norman, Livonia.

Parents begin co-op nursery

A new cooperative pre-school for four-year-olds has opened in the McKinley Elementary School, 9101 Hillcrest, Livonia.

Applications are now being accepted from parents in the McKinley area. Sessions take place Tuesdays and Thursdays from 12:30-2:30 p.m. with a fee of $3 per week.

Newburg UMC plans Feb. 2-6 'Euriskon' series

"Euriskon", a five-evening program described by the pastors of Newburg United Methodist Church as "evangelism with a difference," is scheduled Feb. 2 to 6 in the church located at 36500 Ann Arbor Trail, Livonia.

The leaders will be the Rev. Barry Johnson, former pastor and counselor from the Chicago area, and Randall Rocke, music graduate of Illinois Wesleyan University.

Meetings are scheduled beginning at 7:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday.

Each evening, said the Rev. Duane Snyder, associate pastor, will include a general meeting of those participating and then small discussion groups. reshments will be served.

Themes for the five evenings will be trust, adaptability, self-responsibility, inter-dependence and the centrality of Christ. The final evening will include a communion service.

Rev. Snyder said the church was seeking to involve as many as possible of its members and include a wide age range in the programs.

D'The aim of Euriskon," he said, "is to challenge our beliefs, quicken our faith and make us more aware of what it means to be a member of a group of Christians."

Rev. Johnson had seven years in parish work in the greater Chicago area before developing the Euriskon program.

He has a degree in history from Wheaton College and a master of divinity from Evangelical Theological Seminary in Naperville, Ill. He also spent two years as a counseling consultant in family therapy.

Rocke, who will lead music for the five evenings, has specialized in opera theater since completing his college work. He recently produced a record album "The Song Is Love."

Welcome Wagon club plans wine-tasting event

Welcome Wagon Club of Plymouth, Inc., an organization for new residents of the rapidly-growing Plymouth and Canton areas, will sponsor its second annual wine-tasting party Feb. 15 in the Odd Fellows Temple on West Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.

The party will carry on a busy schedule for the group designed to fill the get-acquainted needs of many new residents of the area.

"We're a club for newcomers to both Plymouth and Canton," said Audrey Stump, president. "We don't want to limit our membership to residents of either area.

"Also, we meet in the evening the first Thursday of each month, and that makes it convenient for women who work or who have a hard time finding babysitters."

The club, besides regular monthly meetings in the Plymouth Credit Union, 500 S. Harvey, and frequent social events, offers a wide range of interest groups, including bowling, crafts, macrame, pinochle (either daytime or evening) and bridge for either women or couples.

MRS. STUMP SAID the organization is sponsored by the Welcome Wagon business firms and speakers for monthly meetings come from Welcome Wagon sponsors.

"But we aren't the hostesses," she added. "We're all just new residents."

The club, organized a little less than two years ago, also has a social service committee headed by Myrna Andres. This group has been visiting residents of the West Trail Nursing Home and has worked with the Salvation Army in filling boxes for needy area residents.

Funds raised from special events are given to local groups, Mrs. Stump said. "Last year we made a contribution to Our House," she added.

THE WINE-TASTING EVENT, scheduled at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 15, was described by Mrs. Stump as "an enjoyable blend of fine wine, cheese and conversation."

First Federal Savings Plans

There's no better time than right now to take a look at how your savings are doing.

Was last year's interest the best your savings could earn? And is it going to do any better this year?

At First Federal Savings of Detroit, you have a wide choice of savings plans and interest rates. From our 5¼% per year regular passbook savings account all the way on up to our new 7¾% per year Certificate Savings Account – the highest allowed by law on insured savings.

Type of Account	Minimum Amount	Annual Rate	Effective Annual Rate	How And When Paid
Regular Passbook	No Minimum	5¼%	5.35%	Daily interest, paid and compounded quarterly
One-Year Passbook Certificate	$1,000	6½%	6.66%	Paid and compounded quarterly
2½-Year Passbook Certificate	$1,000	6¾%	6.92%
4-Year Passbook Certificate	$1,000	7½%	7.71%
6-Year Passbook Certificate	$1,000	7¾%	7.98%

Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal from certificate savings accounts.

And your savings at First Federal are insured to $40,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the U.S. Government.

So take a look at the chart here and think about your present savings account. If it doesn't measure up, bring it to us and let's talk about a year of greater interest for you.

We can do more for you if you'll think First.

People who buy and people who sell get together in the Observer&Eccentric Newspapers

Buyers and sellers are "strange" people. Strange to each other, that is. People with lots of different needs and wants, people who need to get together. They need to get together in the quickest, least expensive and most effective way possible—the Observer & Eccentric Want Ads.

Say you need a buyer for a bunch of baby basset hounds, or a really good home for a litter of antiques...How do you meet those unknown admirers with an eye for your special goods? How do you keep track of sellers with garage sales, and owners of autos and pets to trade? It's easy -- when you know where buyers and sellers get together best—the Observer & Eccentric Classifieds.

It's easy to get double buying and selling results, too. Double-Action Ads bring people together from all over Wayne and Oakland Counties. These suburban communities include: Birmingham, Bloomfield, West Bloomfield, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Rochester, Avon Twp., Southfield and Troy in Oakland County; Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth, Plymouth Twp., Canton Twp., Redford Twp., and Westland in Wayne County. Smart buyers and sellers place a Double Action Family Want Ad (non business) of 15 words or less in two consecutive issues, with no changes in copy and no cancellations -- and they pay only $6. That's a savings of $2.00 off the regular cost of placing an ad in two issues.

When you have something to sell...when you have something to buy...you've got a lot in common in the Observer & Eccentric Classified Want Ads.
